Alameda...

a small hidden city that enjoys a community that does not restrict its citizens. Our community supports us through our endeavors and therefore, anything is possible. During our four years of high school, we discover who we are. It is a launch pad to our future where the possibilities are endless. Since we can find satisfaction in whatever we are doing, we can be anything.

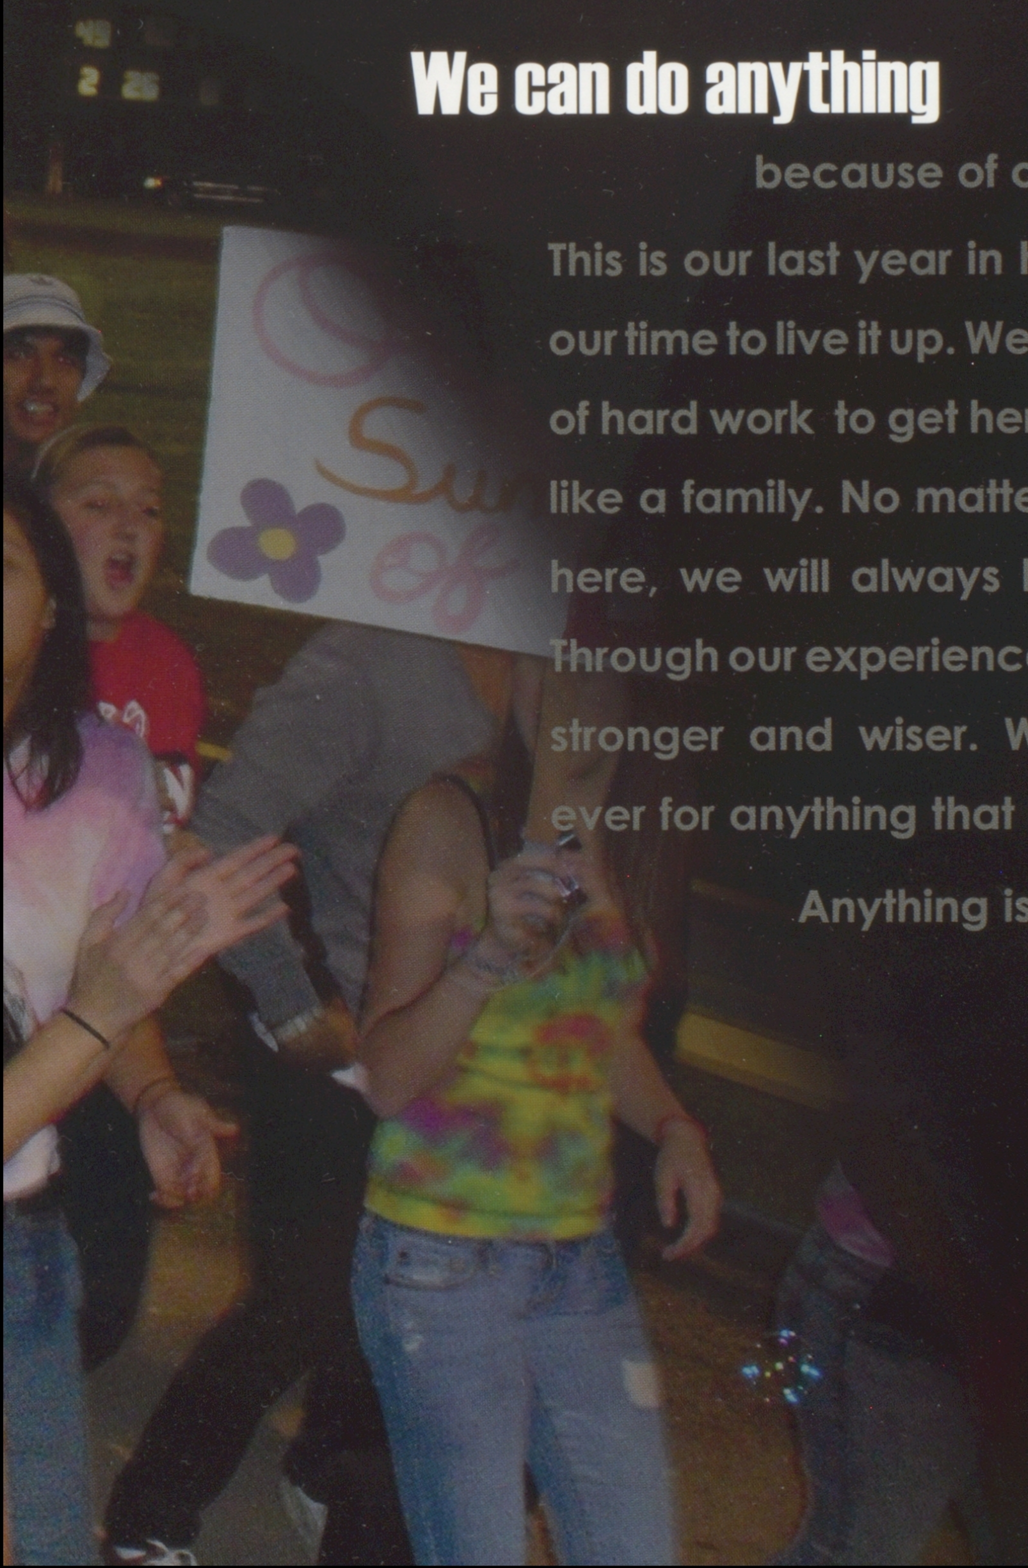
[pro-active]



We can do anything

because of our drive for success.

This is our last year in high school, and it is our time to live it up. We have endured years of hard work to get here and have bonded like a family. No matter where we go from here, we will always have our memories. Through our experiences, we have become stronger and wiser. We are as ready as ever for anything that may come our way.

Anything is possible

if we are pro-active

"I've been drawing and painting ever since I can remember, though I have only been taking art classes since middle school. To me, Art is a form of personal expression as essential as speaking or writing."

- Sandy King

"I've been in band for four years playing the trumpet. I like it because my friends are in the class and I've been doing it since Freshman year."

- Mu Lin Cheng

"I've been playing the cello for 11 years. I like being in band because the people are fun and pretty cool. I like meeting other musicians; it's fun meeting new people."

- Cindy Hickox

"I love to dance because I can express myself in many different ways. I've been dancing on and off since I was a little kid."

- Tony Nguyen

"I love being a part of the arts department. Being onstage gives me this joy that I cannot get from anything else. Freshman year, I was in the musical, Beauty and the Beast, and have been in drama productions ever since."

- Nina Manno

"I like multimedia art because I feel like I can work better with computers than with a pencil and paper. Even though this is my first year of multimedia art, I was surprised by how deep I was into it."

- Andy Lau

"I love music, and singing I've been doing it for three years. I also played the piano since I was a child, which gives me a love for music and brought me to my love for singing. Singing is like a part of me."

The Best of 2010...

If you could [be] anything, what would you [be]?

We are history in the making.

Every person has the opportunity and ability to shine. Just as some people have found their calling in fashion, others seem destined for success in physics. But no matter what, we are who we choose to be and we do what we choose to do.

Every year, the members of the Senior class reflect on themselves and their classmates. While some people continue to search for their place in life, others seem to fall into certain niches. The ballotting for "Senior Bests" allows the entire Senior student body to input their opinion on the various categories. We can be anything we want to be.

What are you?

"I would be Reggie Bush because he's buff, raw at football and is with Kim Kardashian. Enough said."

-Brandon Yee

"I would want to be a travel writer. I think getting paid to see the world and write about my experiences would be the best job ever."

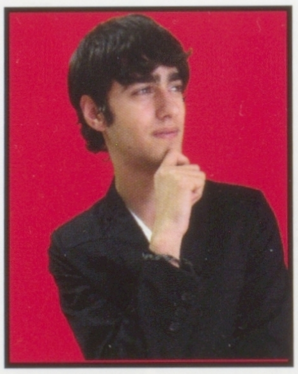
-McCaulay Singer-Milnes

"I would be a vigilante. Or a DJ. A vigilanDJ, who remixes crime with turntables of justice. "

-Symeon Tzvetkov

"I would be Optimus Prime because he is my hero and a very wise leader which I strive to be. Also, he can crush anyone."

– Gina Bishop



"Someone who is as influential as Obama, as loved as Michael Jackson, and as skilled as Michael Phelps. In other words, the Burger King."

-Ashton Doulabi-Ramezani

"A cartoon character because in Phineas and Ferb, they always do the impossible in one day."

-Amanda Lim

"I would be a cat because then everyone would scratch my chin and the base of my tail."

-Garren Orr

"I would be a toy maker because I want to make a child's day brighter with my beastly carpentry skills. "

-Jennifer Tran

"I would be a T-Rex because they are really cool."

-Hector Lopez-Garcia

[Senior Bests]

Most Artistic

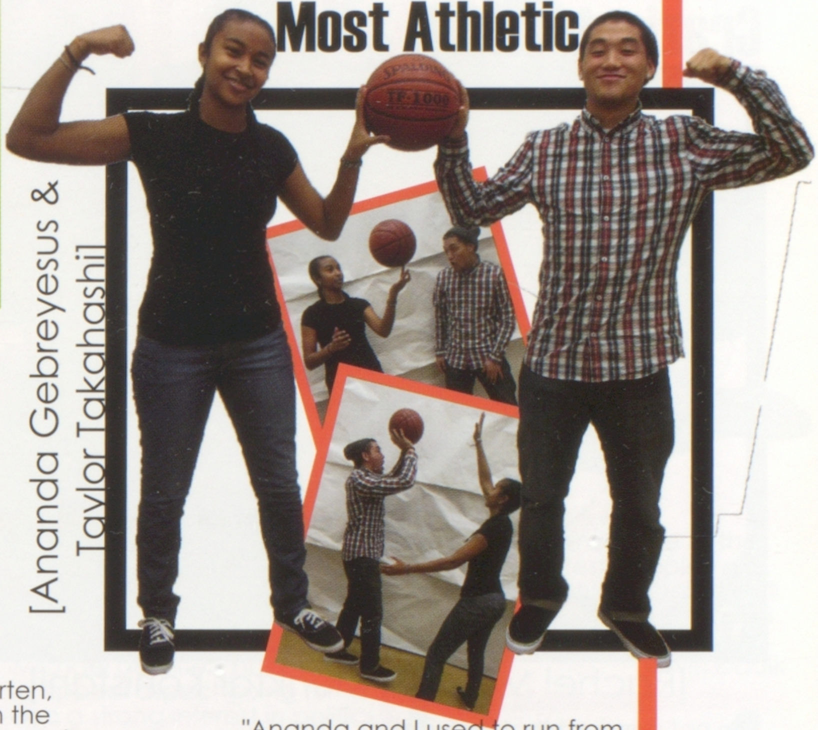
[Ajaya Rana & Elsa Lu]

" I was happy to be the first to tell her that she won, though basically everyone already knew that she would."
- Cindy Hickox

" Even back in kindergarten, AJ would smear poo on the walls into beautiful shapes and patterns, he's always been very artistic."
- Alexi Keller

Most Athletic

"My bestie Taylor won most athletic. Who knew? It's okay he still can't admit that I used to beat him on the court."
- Whitney Grindall



[Ananda Gebreyesus & Taylor Takahashi]

"Ananda and I used to run from our basketball games straight to our soccer games together. She doesn't stop."
- Khyra Conerly

Most Changed

"Emilio used to be a twerp but then he got really big and buff and cool and really handsome."
- Erika Greenley

[Emilio Garcia-Sanchez & Katy Huey]

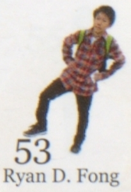
" I had no doubt in my mind that Katy was going to win Most Changed. She has certainly blossomed into a sexy young lady."
- Shannon Skiles

Most Comical

"Marco is one of the funniest comedians at the school. He'll always bring a smile to your face on any day of the week."
- Calvin Danh

[Marco Gonzalez & Chiarra Duncan]

"Chiarra was born funny. Anything she says puts a smile on my face even if it's not supposed to be funny."
- Britney Walker



"I risk my life every time I get into her car. Let's just say, I make sure I'm buckled before she steps on the gas!"
- Cerys Morgan

Craziest Driver

[Rachel Marra & Muhktar Kohistani]

"I'm not surprised that he won because one time a lot of people saw when he skidded and crashed into the sidewalk at school."
- Luke Morbitz

"Tawny definitely deserves to win most extreme because she's EXTREME."
- Katy Roberts

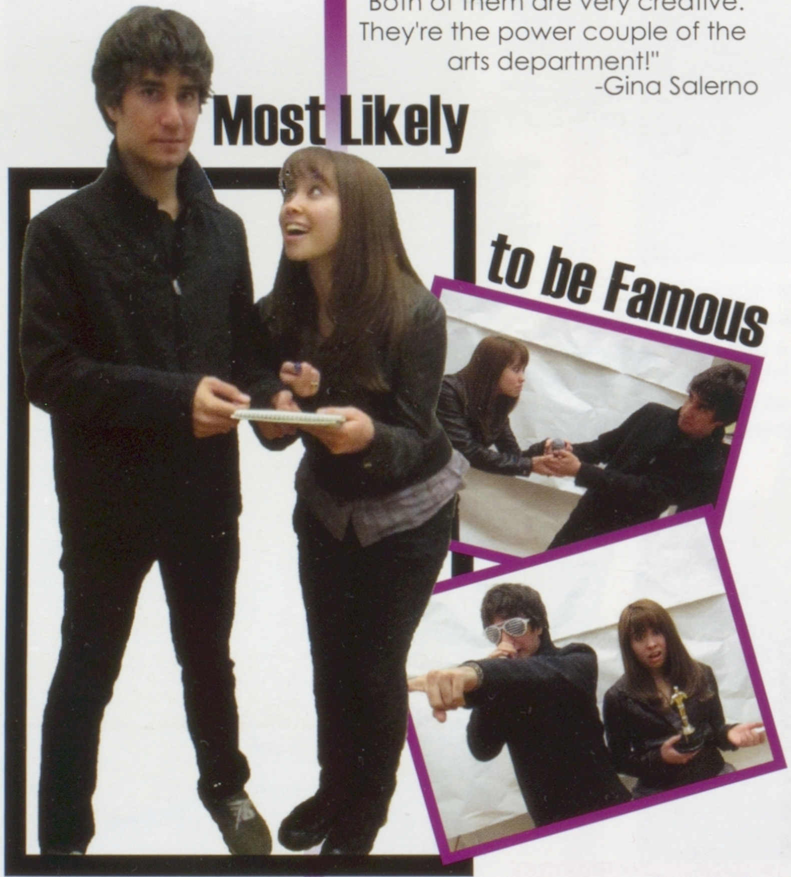
[Tawny Murphy & Patrick Brown]

Most Extreme

"I've seen Patrick confronted by police in the middle of the night, and he has literally SWAT-kicked a door down. Yeah, he REALLY IS just that extreme."
- Eli Gray

"Both of them are very creative. They're the power couple of the arts department!"
-Gina Salerno

Most Likely to be Famous



[Brendan Hoye & Kristin Little]

" I've never met any people who want it more. Their drive to succeed is definitely going to take them both really far in all of their endeavors."
- Elijah Kerns

"I've been friends with Michelle for a long time and she's the type of girl who is friendly to everyone. She knows how to make anyone fall for her flirtatious charm."
- Nate Silverman

[Michelle Murphy & Sammy Hassen]

Biggest Flirt

" My boy Saddam just has this charm that he lays down on the ladies. And some times it works."
- Qais Shaghasi

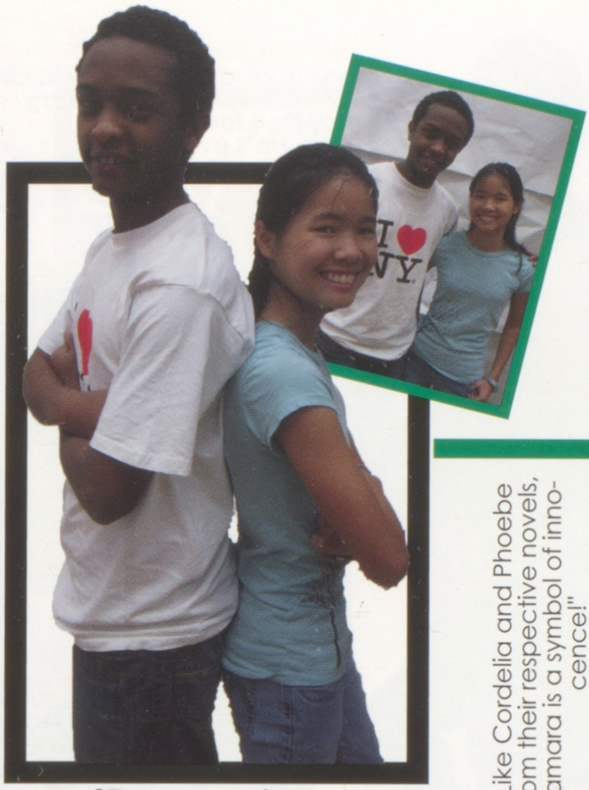
Senior Bests by [Michele Sum and Vivian Wu]

Most Innocent



[Dagnachew Gebreselassie & Tamara Takeshita]

"Like Cordelia and Phoebe from their respective novels, Tamara is a symbol of innocence!"
- Jonathan Lin

"It always seems like nothing is ever going wrong for Dag; he never gets himself into any troubling situations!"
- Stephanie Chan

Most Intelligent

[Jasmine Edelstein & Charles Ouyang]

"Charles tried to build a tesla coil for a physics project, but Dr. Dauber wouldn't let him because apparently there is something intrinsically 'unsafe' about 15,000 volts and giant streamers of purple lightning."
- Steven Tom

"Jasmine's one of the smartest people I've met at this school but still manages to be fun and interesting."
- Kevin Dadik

Biggest Party Animal

"I'm not surprised John won biggest party animal because he a beast!"
- Stanley Tu

[John Bowman & Noel Arevalo]

"Well if Noel didn't win then the voting was rigged because she deserves it. She is at every party and has more fun then everyone combined."
- Brendon Foye

Most Likely to be President

" Michael definitely has that public appeal aspect going for him and a strong interest in politics. With those characteristics it's not surprising he won Most Likely to be President. He's like a wasian Obama come to think of it."
- Brandon Sepp

[Michael Hoye & Na'imah Jennings]

"Naimah is one the most articulate, passionate, and caring people I have ever met and she is going to take over the world someday. So of course she won Most Likely to be President!"
- Anjuli Sastry

Emily Basta

Worst Case of Senioritis

"Slacker on the outside, hard worker on the inside."
- Carrie Chan

[Rebecca Pan & Ama Sarantuya]

"Ama parties all night and sleeps all day, and throws his problems away."
- Ryan Pang

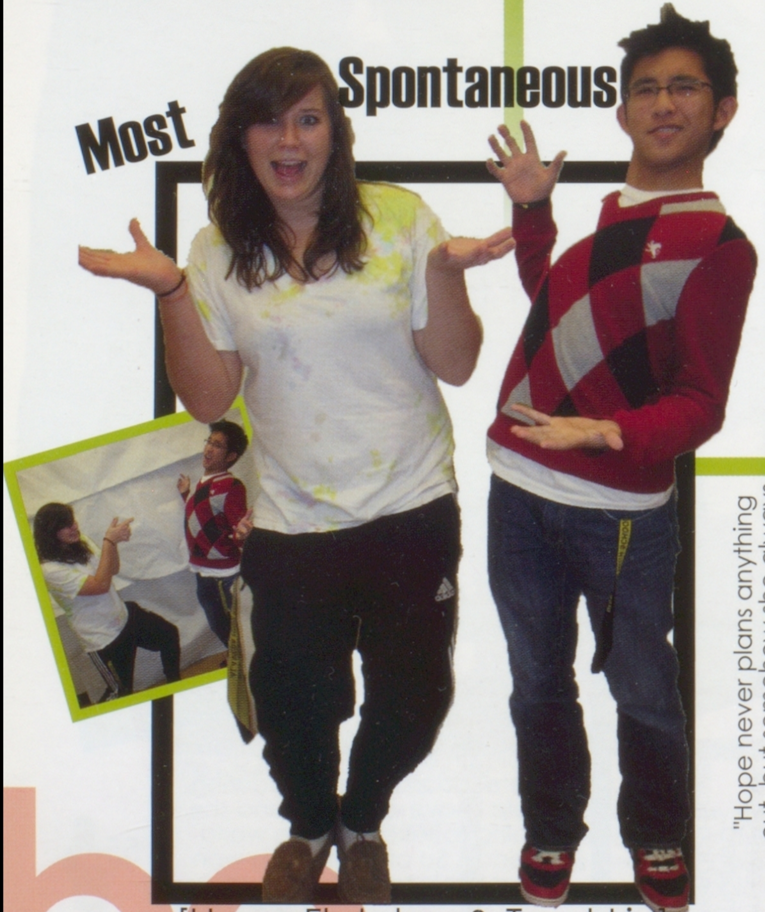
Most Spirited

" Jeremy Yu is the complete package. He's everything a woman can ask for!"
- Tim Han

[Jeremy Yu & Debbie Gee]

"Debbie is always so energetic and spirited and always has the best outfits for spirit days!"
- Amy DeSmidt

Most Spontaneous



" Trent is definitely the most spontaneous person I know. You never know what he might say next."
- Gabe Falzone

"Hope never plans anything out, but somehow she always finds fun and exciting things to do."
- Kellie Grigg

[Hope Fletcher & Trent Liu]

Most Talkative

" Ben talks a bajillion miles per second so it really wasn't hard to point out that Ben is the most talkative boy within our orange hallowed halls."
- Megan Huey

[Ashley Hom & Ben Paik]

"Ashley Hom is always so bubbly and outgoing. I can talk to her for hours and it never gets boring."
- Alex Muzio

Senior Bests by [Michele Sum and Vivian Wu]

Most Trendy

" Bria always looks fabulous! She can pull off any trend."
- Ingrid Hodel

[Bria Trass & Colin Umeki]

" I wasn't surprised that Colin won. I love him and his sense of style. His style just shows his character and how subtly magnificent he is."
- Gabriela Rey

Best Friends [Female/Male Duo]

"I'm not surprised that they won. Nicole is a 'fairly friendly' person and easy to get along with."
- Leif Reynolds

[Nicole Walden & Adam Khatib]

" Adam and Nicole always make each other friendship bracelets."
- Isabel Smith

Best Friends [Male Duo]

"They're like the night embedded with the moon. One can't shine without the other."
- Keith Duong

[Tuong Duong & Ben Trinh]

"It's pretty obvious they're best friends; they just complete each other. Ben is the doorknob to Tuong's door and Tuong is the appleslice to the core of Ben's apple."
- Andy Lau

Best Friends [Female Duo]

" Michele and Marika practically think each other's thoughts. They are exactly like Thing 1 and Thing 2 from Dr. Seuss. You will always see them together."
- Liam Davis

[Michele Sum & Marika Prins]

"Michele and Marika's friendship is like finding that one onion ring in a bag full of French fries. They constantly laugh about things that are not funny."
- Cesar Hernandez

Senior Banquet

{A Red Carpet Event}

On November 21st, 2009, the Senior class of Alameda High boarded the Fumé Blanc Commodore Yacht for an evening of dining and entertainment. Alameda High's Senior Banquet is one of the most memorable nights of the year. Despite the frigid weather, Class of 2010 basked on the deck and within the yacht's levels for a night on the San Francisco Bay. Over the course of the night, Seniors were able to eat pasta and tacos, be presented with the Senior Best winners, and dance under the Bay Bridge. But one of the highlights during the celebration of the new school year was the Senior slideshow. Filled with photos ranging from Freshman through Senior years, the slideshow brought back memories of the friendships and adventures that Seniors have experienced accros their high school careers.

For years, students dream about this moment, and finally, we as Seniors face the doors of graduation and the world beyond. Over the past four years, we've made new friends, learned new things and endeavored new pursuits, and now, at the end of high school, we face our biggest adventure of all: the future.

[inquisitive]

We can do anything

because of our differing interests.

Stress comes hand-in-hand with life, however, with all of our hobbies, we have learned to balance work and fun. Our hobbies help us to relieve stress and are a way for us to express ourselves. Whether it be a sport, an instrument, volunteering, or a job, we all dedicate our time to different things that help to define who we are.

Anything is possible

be Yourself

Brendan Hoye '10, and Bria Trass '10, pose back to back showing off their edgy look that catches the eye of the students everywhere in Alameda High.

Connor Reed '11, and Skye Davis '11, both Juniors radiate a classic and urban twist to a casual outfit.

Justin Del Rosario '12, and Caroline Sherrat '12, display vintage wear. He sports a leather jacket that resembles the '50's and she, a lacy top from the '20's.

Aylssa Francisco'13, and Adham Awa'13, bundle up for the cold winter weather and still manages to look amazing.

" Every outfit needs to be completed with confidence and...swag" -Gina Bishop '10

From Preppy to Indie, from Gothic to Urban, the different styles of presenting ourselves play an important role in our daily lives. To some, an image is everything, but to most, an image comes with a deeper meaning combined with who they are, their experiences, and their history. At Alameda High, we are lucky to witness such a diverse and colorful crowd of people every day. The way we dress captures our personality and exhibits who we are even without the use of words. Shirts will fade, jeans will rip and shoes will grow old but when we look back at the outfits that we once loved, we'll see more than a pile of ratty clothes, we'll see a mound of treasured memories.

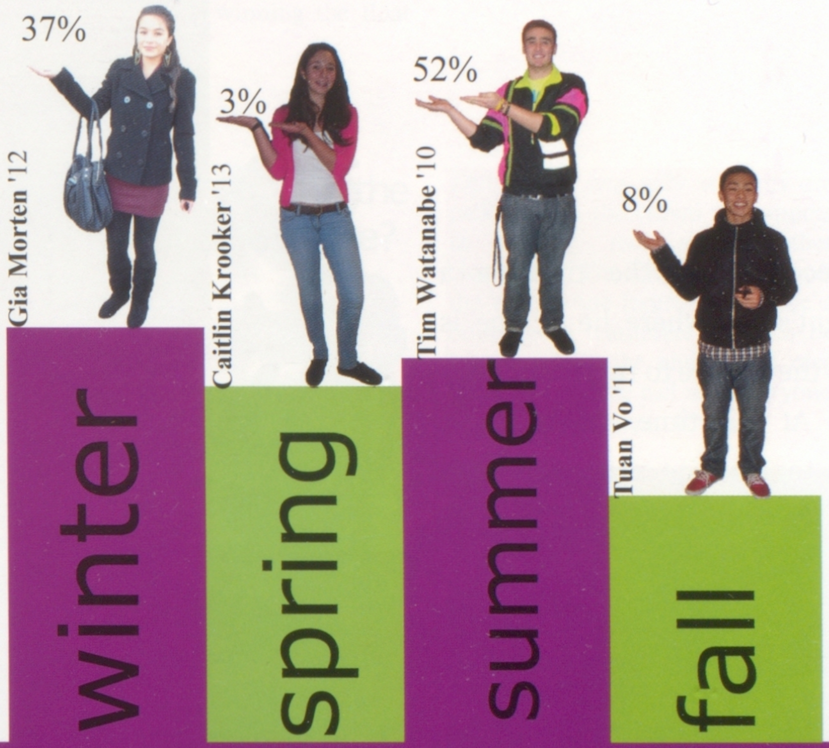
What is your favorite seasonal wear?



" I need to be comfortable, tasteful and keep it fresh!" -Trent Yee '12

Alexi Keller '10, Stanley Tu '10 MaryKim Hoang '11, Cameron Look '11, Deisree Angles '12 and Zach Rung '10 gather around to show off their fresh hats and funky fashion. Different styles to fit their unique looks, and each has a hat to finish off their outfit.

Bonkers

Homecoming is the time in a student's life where he or she is given the chance to represent their class. At this time, the students come together to prove who has the most spirit, pride, and passion of them all. The students dress up in their class colors, paint their faces, and even make signs to declare their superiority over everyone else. Homecoming is not only about representing one's class, but it is also a time for the school to come together as a whole in all its diversity.

SENIORS 2010

This year the Homecoming court consisted of Senior queen and king, Mercedes Rawlyk and Jeremy Yu, princesses and princes Michelle Murphy and Tim Han; Gina Bishop and Ben Trinh; Cerys Morgan and Qais Shaghasi; Stephenie Chan and Ben Paik; Junior princess and prince, Zula Ganzorig and Tito Jimenez; Sophomore princess and prince, Jessica Lam and Kiet Tran; and Freshmen princess and prince, Kaitlyn Crooker and Weston Tolbert.

Wearing different shades of green, their class color, the Junior class follows their 1950's theme float around the field.

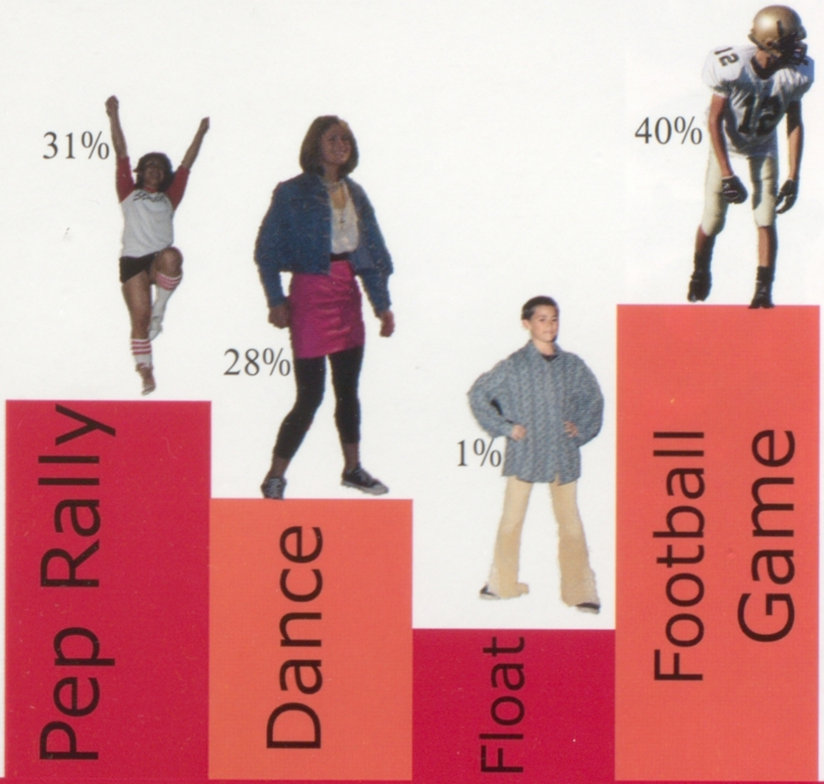
"Seniors, Seniors, Seniors!" the Class of 2010 chants as they parade behind their float decked out in their class color. The Seniors celebrated Homecoming as if they were in the 60's era dressed up in tye dye holding peace signs. This year the Seniors were victorious in winning the float building competition.

Are you most likely to have more fun at the pep-rally, football game, the float or the dance?



During the pep rally students are picked from the crowd to compete in a relay race against other classmates. The Freshmen start off the with a one legged race while a Sophomore teammate waits to be tagged in. By the end of the race there was a close call and everyone had a good time.

Anyone is capable of making a change. It's the little things we do that can end up having a greater impact than we ever imagined. Volunteering is where it all starts. By helping out at food banks, collecting items for charities, or just contributing a few hours of our time, we can make a difference in the lives of the people around us. It takes a little motivation for most of us to get out and volunteer but once we do, it's incredibly rewarding. There is no greater joy than collecting books for children in Uganda or clothing the homeless, like some of the clubs at our school have done. Now is as good of a time as any other to get out there and help. Take part in something important, help create change and be involved.

Many clubs, hoping to collect donations from students, place bins in the main hallway. This allows students who want to make a difference to give what they can to the clubs at our school. Clubs collect numerous items through student donations. These range from books, to jackets, to food items, and go to benefit multiple different people. Anything can be donated, and they will help the needy people get what they lack.

Senior Quarterback Hope Fletcher drops back and throws a deep pass. Junior Becky Moon penetrates through the offensive line in an attempt to sack the quarterback. Moon describes this moment as "[her] chance to show [her] team what [she] was made of."

Junior Francine Kolokihakaufisi reads the defense before the play is initiated. This will allow her to know where the "holes" in the defense will be so that she can get a good gain on the upcoming play.

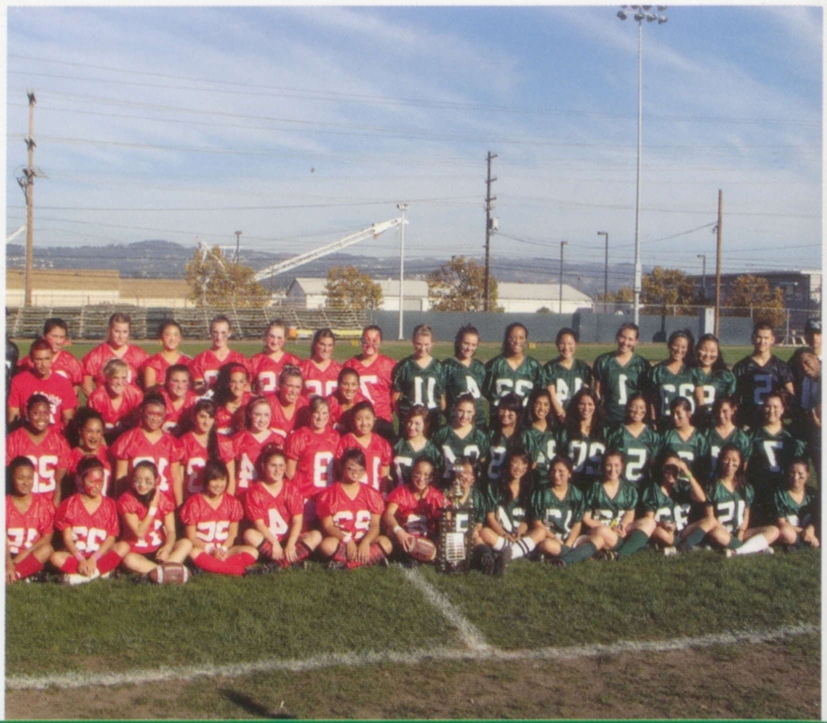
The Seniors and Juniors proudly pose for the camera before the intense game that is about to take place. Both teams worked hard during their practices to prepare for the big game so that they could crush each other in an all-out war.



> " I was nervous, but I knew I wanted to win so I just left it all on the field."-Young Nguyen, '10

Passion and aggression were left on the field. Hearts were broken, friendships created, and camaraderie was powerful. This can all be said of the Second Annual Girl's Powderpuff Game. The whole game consisted of the Seniors vs. the Juniors in an all-out war to see who would come out victorious. Powderpuff was a chance for the women to show their skills, strength and power. Even though Powderpuff may have seemed like a war between the two upperclasses, it was more than that. It was a chance to represent the school and show the teamwork and unity that can come from joining a team. The women of Powderpuff became a family that served as inspiration that anyone can do anything.

1) Junior Roxy Guzman rapidly runs through the Senior defense. With the help of her teammates Guzman is able to make a first down.

2) Juniors Michelle Licea and Angelica Rivera take down Senior Jennifer Kam. Licea describes the game as "mentally tough and a way use her strength."

Junior Lori Nguyen sprints across the field in an attempt to catch the ball carrier. L. Nguyen has to use her agility and her stamina to make sure that she is in proper shape to hunt down the runner. "In the beginning we didn't really know each other, but on the field, we became a family," says L.Nguyen

Brittany Belt, 10, rushes the offensive line in an attempt to sack the quarterback. Belt found powderpuff as "a way to release stress." Belt says " I wanted to win, we went in giving it our best."

After huddling up and discussing the play that they are going to run, the Junior offense lines up to snap the ball. With precision, they are able to create a play that will ultimately exceed in pushing the defense back. Juniors Zula Gonzorig and Francine Kolokihakaufisi are two members of the of the tough offense line.

What sport do you think is the most intense?

Senior Ryan Pang and Sophomore Linde Huang wait in anticipation for their Airsoft opponents. Airsoft is sport in which opposing players try to eliminate each other by hitting one another will pellets. Pang and Huang must be quick to react as the game is extremely fast paced.

Senior Marlena Nip poses alongside her 8 ft. surf board after an intense run at Cowells Beach in Santa Cruz. Nip has been surfing for two years now and says that "endurance is key in a successful ride, but that being a swimmer of nine years makes it easier" to maintain her stamina.

An extreme sport: A challenge that arises in which the individual must overcome the obstacle to succeed; A person brave enough to accept a challenge even in the most intense conditions. Extreme sports at Alameda High School are the outlet for individuals who feed off the adrenaline rush that comes off the risk. It is this that brings about passion, strength, and the desire to win. Extreme Sports can be any type of sport different than the normal sports offered at a school. These sports require dedication, compassion, and the endurance of pain, bruises and scars. Nonetheless, through it all, extreme sports measure the amount of heart an individual carries. He or she is the type of person willing to "go out on a limb" in order to achieve happiness, glory, and the impossible.

Senior Anna Sharpe cruises on her wake board along Lake Berryessa near Napa Valley. Sharpe has been wake boarding for the past three summers and really loves being able to be in the water and the sun. Sharpe, a natural born swimmer, loves the exhilaration of wake boarding.

Junior Dustin Ho races on his motorbike uphill. Ho commented that "there is a thrill as you go faster, but that you shouldn't be scared to keep going."

Junior Samantha Rados vigorously struggles to hold her position on the raft down the American River. Rados says that she loves white water rafting because "of the thrill it gives not having anything holding [me] into [my] seat." Rados makes sure that she maintains confidence when passing huge rapids as to not capsize. "If one person stops rowing, it can affect the entire direction the boat is heading in," says Rados.

Vacation is a time to sit back, relax, and discover different parts of the world. Whether it is hopping on a plane to go to Italy or taking a road trip to go to your favorite campsite, vacation is about taking a break from the stress of life. It can be a time to spend with your family, friends, or a time to spend with just yourself. Some people choose to go to the beach, go shopping, travel somewhere, or even study. But no matter what they are doing, it gives them a chance to take a break from the everyday life, do the things they love, and be relaxed.

After School is a time when students engage in various activities that they like. Some students like to hang out with their friends, while others like to participate in team sports. Some have hobbies that are not available at school, but they are interested in. The time after school gives students the opportunity to go out and expand their horizons by trying out different things. Sometimes a student may try something new and they discover they enjoy it so much that they may make it their career.

In most households pets are considered to be vital members of the family. They teach us responsibility and patience, while also providing us with companionship and unconditional amount of love. Here at Alameda High we have a variety of different pets, from the common household pets like cats and dogs, to rare types like iguanas and tarantulas. Along with being part of the family, some people take their pets with them on trips, shower them with toys, and even dress them up for holidays. Clearly, pets play an important part in the lives of their owners.

Everyone listens to music. It is a big part of everyone's life. However not many people have the patience and ability to play music. It takes both dedication and perseverance to learn how to master an instrument, and then it takes sheer guts to be confident enough to perform in front of others. Each instrument requires a different set of skills and abilities to master. Music is a way to both express one's feelings and a way to bring people closer together. It spans all cultures and all ways of life and has been around for ages. Everyone enjoys music and can benefit from its soothing qualities. It is a prevalent part of our culture and will continue to inspire and teach people around the world.

Senior Aaron Soo-Hoo likes to drive his Honda Prelude everywhere, from school to the movies.

"If I could pick any way to get around it would be to travel by hot air ballon." -Brandon Thoma '10

Senior Emilio Garcia-Sanchez walks to school every day. It's an easy commute because he only lives a few blocks away.

Sophomore Jackson Valler sits on the sunroof on his Honda Accord. Valler was one of the first Sophomores to get his license. Valler loves the freedom of being able to drive and go where he wants.

When we are young we often take for granted the time our parents would take out of their day to drive us around, from the daily morning ride to school to the drive to soccer practice. We typically look at transportation as getting from point A to point B. Once we reach a certain age, we become more accountable for getting ourselves from place to place. Some take the bus, others drive their cars, while a minority walks, bikes, or skateboards. To most, a license in the pocket is freedom in the mind; however, all freedom comes with responsibility. Driving is a privilege that can be revoked at any time, so most try to keep that privilege by abiding by the laws and rules set by the authorities.

because of our passion to learn.

Whether we learn from our teachers or from each other, we continuously expand our knowledge. Although some prefer brain-crunching math problem while others look forward to analyzing literature, our classes bring us together in our different interests. We all motivate each other to try our hardest and to do the best that we can do.

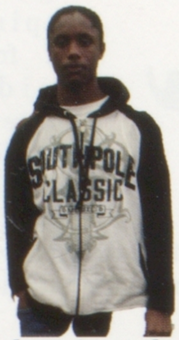
What are some specifics that keep you interested in autoshop?



Denzel Johnson, '13

"Well, every male relative in my family is a mechanic, and I'm keeping the tradition alive by learning about cars as well. It's very fascinating to study about parts of the cars and how they operate, because someday I will be driving my own car."

Deepak Sharma, '13

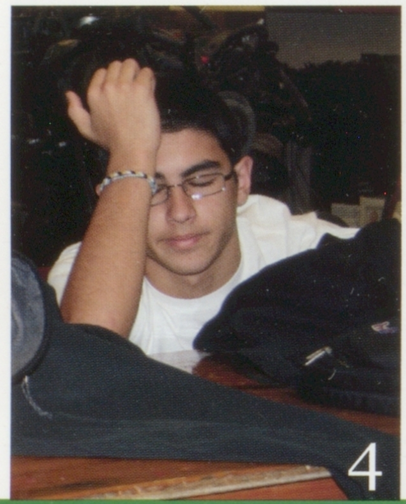
"I really wanted to take this class to work with cars. The fact that we get hands on experience everyday keeps me motivated to learn more! If one day my car ever breaks down, I would easily apply my knowledge that I have accumulated from this class."

1) Paul Ngo and Linell Lacanlale, '13, work on an abandoned locker by screwing in all the bolts properly so they do not collapse. By doing tedious tasks such as this one, they learn how to properly screw in a bolt in a car because if one bolt is loose, then the whole car will not work. Every little bolt is vital in a car and affect how well it can function.

2) Soo Kim, Denzel Johnson, and Taylor Ross, '13, push a car out of the makeshift garage in the autoshop classroom in order to move it into the adjacent compartment of the garage. The boys learn teamwork when they have to work together to move the car. While they are doing this, the teacher explains the accelerator and brakes of the car and teaches their importance to the boys. When they push the car away from the garage, they are the accelorators, the boys at the front of the car are the brakes that stop the car from going too far or too fast.

3) Jack Rausser, '13, shows the proper way to change a tire to his peers. Rausser has some experience on changing tires and loves to show off his skills to his peers. Everyone should know how to change a tire because it is an essential skill that you need in life.

4) Adham Awa,'13, takes a time out from working hard during autoshop to listen to some music. The frequent breaks gives him some leisure from his hectic day where he can relax and be himself. When Awa is not resting, he works on learning the intricate parts of the car and how it works. The vital skills he learns in the class will benefit them later in life when he experiences car problems in a desolate place where he is stranded. Using what he learns from Mr. Potter, Awa can successfully make the car work until he manages to get help.



Jacob Charney, '13, focuses diligently on trying to install spark plug wires on a test engine. Correctly functioning spark plugs are one of the necessities of a combustion engine since they ignite the gas vapor.

This car was given to the autoshop class two years ago, by a woman named Susan Potter. This generous donation allows the students to constantly work on it and learn the intricate workings of a car that allow it to run. The students take the car completely apart piece by piece. Then they work on a specific part of the car until they learn how it works and how to assemble it. The car will be complete in four semesters, each semester being dedicated to one of these categories: engine, electrical, fuel system, or brakes. The two-year process thoroughly educates the students in each system.

Nico Lambert and Marco Ochoa, '13, learns about the inner workings of the car. They practice maneuvers over and over again until they can get them perfectly. Each student gets a turn at screwing the bolts and until they learn how to do the task at hand properly, they will have to repeat everything until they get it right. Their peers stand over them to make sure they are doing it right and to offer aid when needed.

Mr. Potter demonstrates to the students what guidelines he has for them when they fix the locker. He has specific guidelines and checks to see if all the bolts are screwed in properly. If one bolt is loose, then the locker will be rendered useless, and anyone can break into it easily. By securing everything, a mechanic makes sure the locker is functioning properly; in the same sense, a car has to have all its bolts screwed securely or else it will be rendered useless.

What do you enjoy about playing music?

Gabriel Cruz, '11

"What everyone likes about music: it makes me feel good, and it allows me to express myself. Music is my middle name! Also, my favorite instrument to play is the glockenspiel because not a lot of people know how to play it, and I feel unique being one of the few that can."

Garren Orr, '10

"It gives you a creative outlet. No part of it dictates what you can and cannot do. It gives me a sort of freedom that I cannot find in any other activity."

The Jazz Band plays Moanin' by Charles Mingus. This is a song is full of solos. As a player solos, they stand up. As the song progresses more and more students join the solos, until almost the entire horn section is standing.

The Jazz Band's brass section plays Pick up the Pieces, by Average White Band. During certain parts of the song, the brass section has a choreographed dance.

Cindy Hickox, a Senior, has been in the music program all four years of high school. Even more impressively she has been playing the cello for 11 years. She enjoys band because "it's fun" and she likes the people that the music program attracts.

Jooeun Lim, '11, looks over the flute music in front of her. In Symphonic Band, the music is difficult and requires a better understanding of music theory. Not only is she expected to know more music theory, but she is expected to be able to play all the music placed in front of her.

1) Michael Romero, '11, plays the trombone during symphonic band. Before playing, he takes a deep breath so he has enough air to complete the series of notes that he is about to play. This is his first year playing trombone. Fellow musician, Harrison Freck, said of Romero, "He took to the instrument like it was meant for him."

2)Alex Fong, a Senior in Jazz Band, starts the beginning solo to the jazz song Moanin', by Charles Mingus. He is the one baritone saxophone player in Jazz Band. He also alternates with playing the alto saxophone, often switching between instruments in the middle of songs. This is his third year in Jazz Band, making him one of the most experienced players in the band. This song begins with a difficult baritone solo, one that Fong has mastered.

3) In their first year of band class, Cameron Beene and Drayson Ngiraingas, '13, prepare to hit the bass drum. Being Freshmen in symphonic band is a big accomplishment and a lot of responsibility because they are expected to keep up with their older classmates.

Jesse "Dragon" Randell gracefully conducts the fourth period symphonic band. It is important that everyone is in time, and is playing their parts correctly.

Symeon Tzvetkov, a Senior plays percussion for the song Moanin'. This is his second year in Jazz Band. Over the summer he took courses at Laney in jazz history and music theory. These classes have helped him in Jazz Band, a class that emphasizes proficiency in music theory and music ability. He enjoys Jazz Band because he likes playing music and it gives him the ability to improvise.

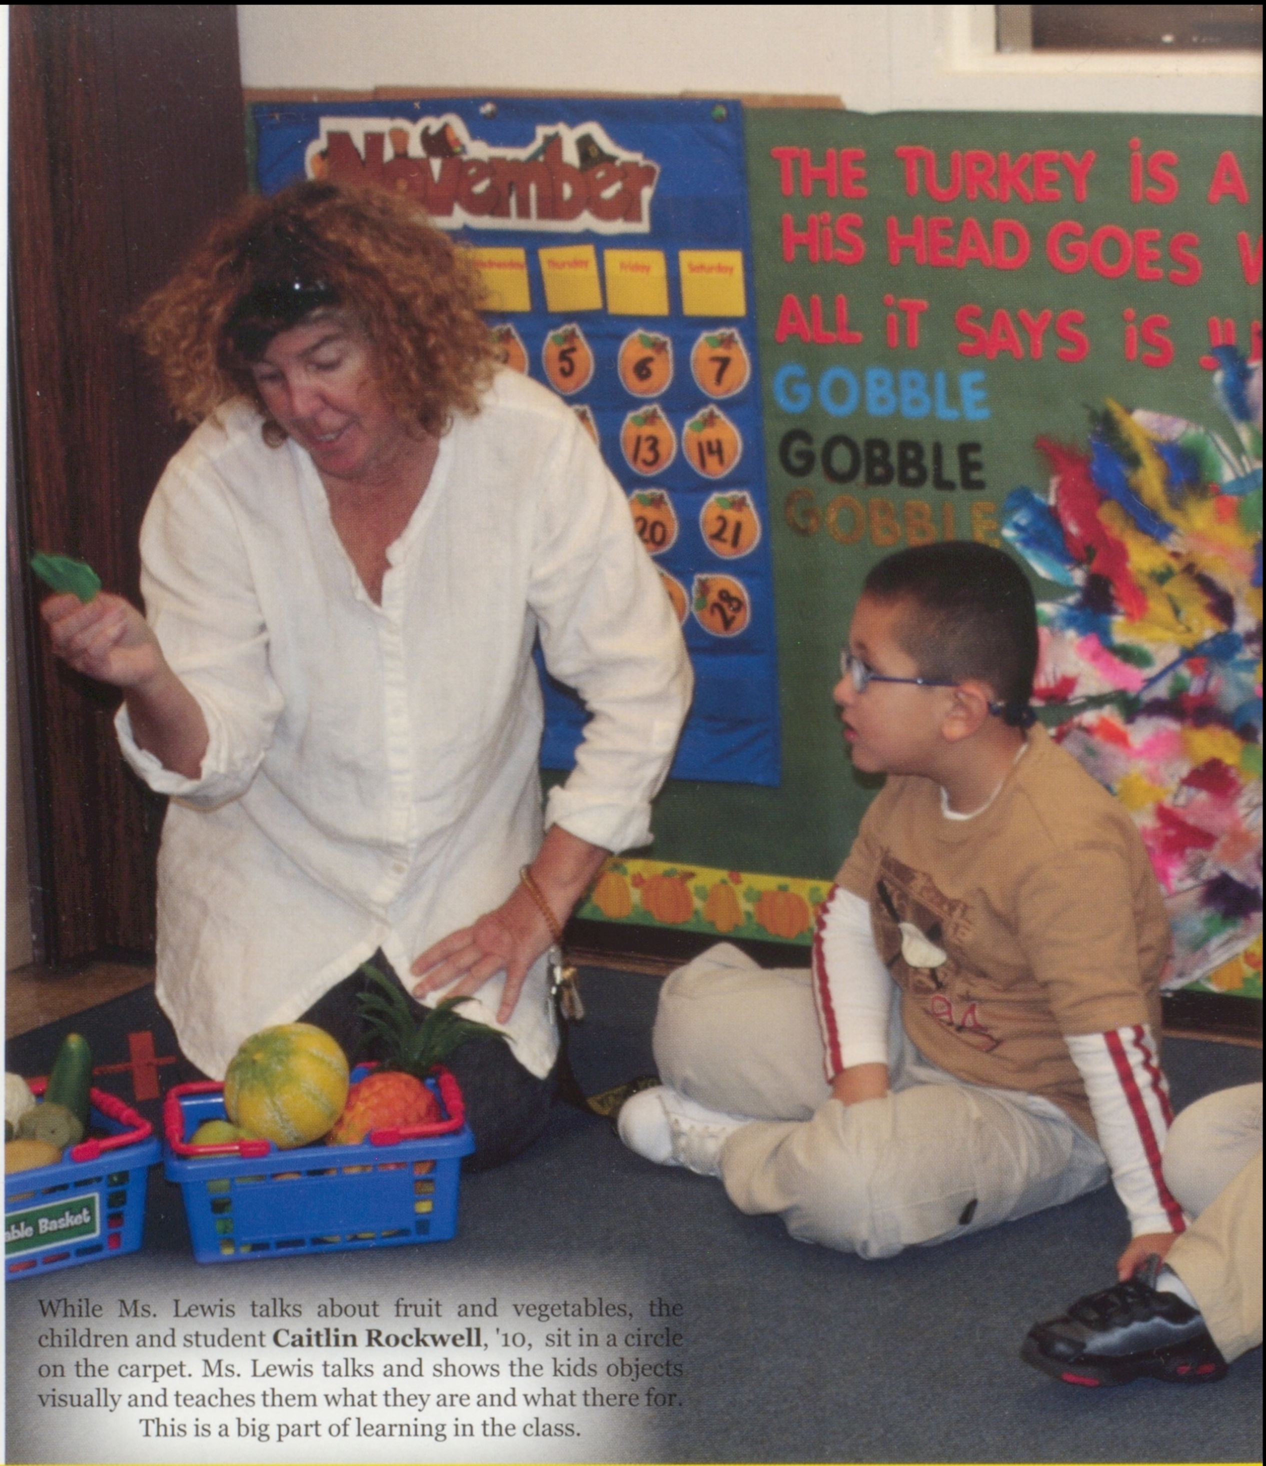
Sarah Badr, 10', assists the kids with putting on their aprons in order to paint. The kids enjoy painting because it is a thick material and it's fun to explore with it. Instead of using markers and crayons, they use paint so they get the touch and excitement real ink.



While Ms. Lewis talks about fruit and vegetables, the children and student Caitlin Rockwell, '10, sit in a circle on the carpet. Ms. Lewis talks and shows the kids objects visually and teaches them what they are and what there for. This is a big part of learning in the class.

The children are able to dress up and pretend to be adults, using the tools an acessories that are needed for the job. The boys like to act like tough guys and dress up as construction workers and such.

Brandon Lau, '10, looks at the pretty drawing this child made. She points it out to him so he clearly knows what a great drawing she constructed.

At the math center, Tim Watanabe, '10, gives a hand-made playdough flower to a pretty princess. The students like to see the kids' faces when they receive something from them or when they play with them. Oyu Erdenebat, '10, watches the smile on Watanabe's face and the princess' face. During class the kids love to dress up and act like the person who they dressed up as.

What's the best aspect of careers with children?

Summer Hurst, '10

"Being able to teach the kids new things and see the expressions on their faces. You feel proud that they comprehend what they're learning. I get to make learning a fun process for them."

Devonte Sanchez, 11'

"We are given the opportunity to learn about kids and apply what we learned. The class is very hands-on. It helps you be more prepared for future experiences, like being a parent."

1. Yajaira Velazquez, '11, assists the little boy in building a house. He watches her carefully to learn how to stack the blocks correctly.
2. While students are not working with the kids, they are behind the scenes working on different projects to better the preschool. Zane Little, '11, cuts out colorful snowflakes to decorate the preschool.

The kids get to end their day by playing outside. Ismet Tudjinovic, '10, watches over to make sure this little guy is safe going down the slide. The playground in the yard is always full of kids climbing around and having fun.

At the writing table, students teach the kids how to write and Anudari Khandtseren, '10, is showing them the correct way to write their names. The kids enjoy the students and look to them as role models. The students like to feel acomplished by teaching the kids how to do the basic ways of completing sentences and drawings.

Gabrielle Reye, '10, pours fruit punch for the kids. During snack time the kids eat a healthy meal. They enjoy it because it is the time to interact with the other kids and talk. Snack time is like lunch time for us and the kids always look forward to it.

In your opinion, what's the scariest aspect of acting?

Garren Orr, '10

If you laugh on stage, because everyone knows you messed up and you are admitting it to the audience, which is a fatal flaw, and the audience ends up laughing at you.

Bianca Dekock, '12

I don't think it's scary at all because I enjoy doing it I feel really excited when I'm on stage but at the same time a little nervous.

1)All the members of the town, Garren Orr, Alec Mathieson, Emily Kirschenheuter, Andrew Altomare, Emma Hoch Schneider, and Alexandra Muzio, learn the reality and continue to loathe the vampire boy and want Barbara Allen, played by Kristin Little, '10, to leave him. Little's character is arguing with Marvin Hudgens, portrayed by Dominic Sandoval, '10.

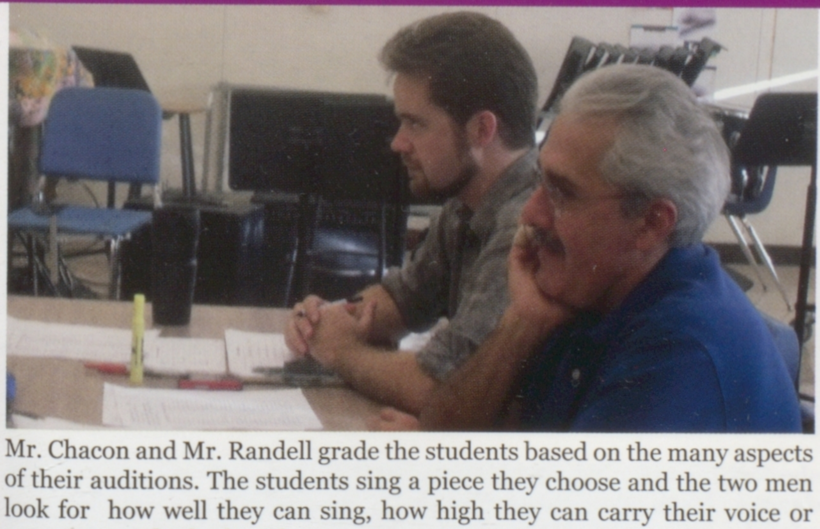
2)Mariko Lam, '10, praises Jesus. Lam was initially put into drama by accident her Freshmen year, and has been acting ever since.

3) Jeanette Zhu, '10, portrays the Conjur Woman, who agrees to turn John, the witchboy, into a human but with a fidelity clause that has to last a year.

Brendan Hoye, '10, as Floyd Allen, plays the guitar and sings. Although many have the first impression that he is pretending to play, Hoye is really playing the guitar live and is quite skilled. The musical talent seems to run in the Hoye household with both brothers in the band Finish Ticket.

Jason Berk, '10, sings All I Care from the musical Chicago. The purpose of singing the song is so their level of talent and expertise is known and they can be given a part in the play that suits their specific talent. The most daunting part of auditions for Berk, is "being in the room with them watching you."

Nathan Brown, '11, the main character of the play Dark of the Moon, plays the witchboy who wishes to turn human for the girl he loves, has made appearances in a total of eight musicals thus far. His many talents capture the hearts of audiences. Here he is surrounded by the Dark witch, Azra Muftic, '10, and the Fair witch, Gina Salerno, '10, who wish to compel him to stay a witch instead of converting.



Mr. Chacon and Mr. Randell grade the students based on the many aspects of their auditions. The students sing a piece they choose and the two men look for how well they can sing, how high they can carry their voice or enunciate and whether they can carry a tune on beat. They are graded not on the music they choose, even though that is a major influence that impacts their singing. The next set of auditions, or the call backs, focus on the dancing abilities of those who passed the voice aspect. They see how coordinated the students are and how on tempo they can be.

Stage manager, Emily Kirschenheuter, '11, is checking the names of those auditioning for Peter Pan. This is one of her many responsibilities. The stage manager's position is to do all the tasks the director, Mr. Chacon, tells them to do. This is the second year Kirschenheuter is stage manager, she originally assisted Mr. Bunker, who recommended her to Mr. Chacon.

What do you think is the most valuable aspect of being in Choir?

Daniel Jansz, '10

"The most valuable apect of Choir is that it helps keep my vocal cords stay in shape. I have been singing since I was five years old, but I never took any lessons. The nerves are hard at first but you get used to them because it's fun and it helps you in other performances."

Ashlye Hodge, '13

"Choir helps with my singing technique and it makes me feel comfortable infront of large crowds. I started when I was little and started taking lessons in middle school. When I'm up on the stage it gives me a adrenline rush especially when I'm singing by myself."

Senior Catherine Ng and Sophomore Faith O'Mara are two major assets to the choir class. Both Ng and O'Mara really strive to acheive great and memorable performances during class. O'Mara, who says "she loves to sing" really is determined to better her vocals and learn more about how powerful her voice can be.

Juniors Jennifer Ng, and Megan McGrath hold their pitch while holding the note to fullest they can go. Both McGrath and Ng really are passionate singers who make sure that they are contributing to the group's performance. "It makes me happy because my aunts are musicians, so it's in the family and I really like being in a group because it's easier to get rid of the nerves,'" says McGrath.

Choir by [Cesar Hernandez and Megan Fisher]

Choir is the perfect outlet for some, and for others, it is a chance to train one's talent. The main aspect of singing is to allow oneself to be heard in a diferent light. For these students, Choir is their source of their passion and for their voices to be heard.

Khye Booker, '12, delivers a powerful performance for his audition of Peter Pan. With choir, Booker is able to practice his singing for intense auditions and performances, just like he did for the muscial.

Freshmen Christina McKinley and Anastasia Koutoulakis keep their smiles intact. They know that if they keep up positive energy, then the audience will feed off the performance.

Choir teacher Mr. Randell has a passion for all things music related. Randell teaches band, choir and musical theater, so it is obvious how much music runs through his veins. This year for the musical, he was at the auditions helping choose whose vocals were stronger than others. His passion for the arts really shine through in his teaching and he is able to get his students to appreciate their own artistic talents.

While there are many new students in Choir this year, it is evident how much raw talent there is. Freshmen Keiko Tokuda and Rachel Zenobia warm up their voices so that they can sing to the best of their abilities. Both Tokuda and Zenobia are great singers and really show confidence in their performances. Tokuda says that, "singing makes me feel stronger and I just love bringing my all in a performance."

Senior Kawika Baculpo and Thomas Lilliston add to the class their deep vocals. Baculpo, who was in the talent show last year, really commits to being a great singer. "I like [Choir] because I want to be good at singing so I can sing at family gatherings and I just enjoy singing," say Baculpo. This is Freshman Ghie Anne Moreno's first year singing in choir at Alameda High. Moreno has been singing in her Church Choir for nine years and she says "singing is a really good way to express your vocals and give you more confidence."

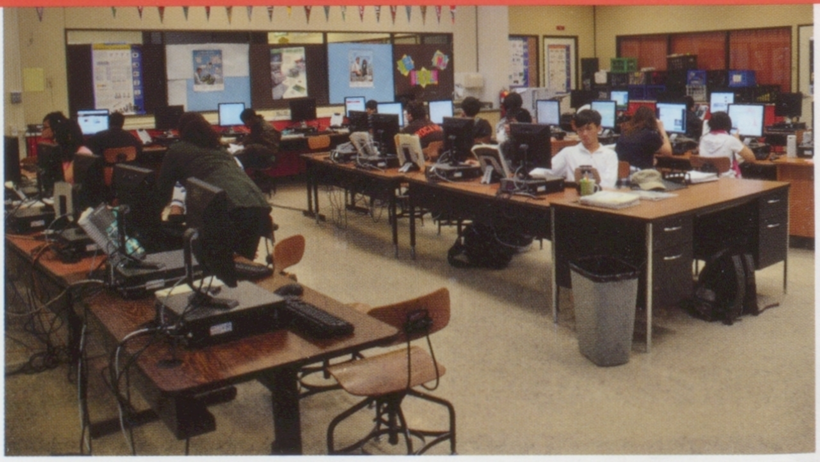
Senior Alexi Keller is making a map for a game he is constructing for the Game Design class. Keller has been in the class for a year and really enjoys being able to have freedom to design anything he wants to. When the map is complete, it will be tested by the class.

Ansel Fok, '10, helps Senior Daniel Garcia, '10, with a map he has to design for inspection by Mr. Duderstadt.



The Computer class learns how to successfully use computers to make them do exactly what they want to do. The students also learn a lot by taking notes on program shortcuts, keystrokes, and commands.

Sophomore Matt Grennon works on a project for his computer class. Grennon has been in the class for a year and he enjoys learning about the ins and outs of computers. Currently, he is learning about the Word program and its shortcuts. This helps him navigate the program with swiftness.

What's your favorite part about computer class?

Katie Dunn '11

"I love learning about daily life and the consequences if we make a bad choice. I also enjoy listening to the guest speakers when they are able to come in."

Emily Kirshenheuter '11

"My favorite part of my computer class is learning about computers and programs and how they work. I also enjoy it because of my teacher."

Troy Shumaker, '10, Andy Ngo, '10, and Daniel Garcia, '10, are testing a map in the game Far Cry 2, created by a fellow student in the class. They are testing the map for any glitches and errors.

Senior Jaime Rangel thinks about what he can build next for his map in the design class. Rangel has been in the class for one year.

The Game Design class designs and constructs maps for video games on the computers. The class uses many programs to design the maps. Maps are the design layout or the foreground of what you see in a video game.

Who is your teacher, and do you like their teaching style?

Winnie Chen, '12

"I have Mr. Sutherland for English. I enjoy being in his class because he has a different, yet effective teaching style. In his class we do weekly blogs. I like doing them because I can express myself while getting a grade for them."

Alex Umeki , '10

"I am in Ms. Chacon's AP English class. We usually spend a majority of the time in class going over vocabulary words posted on the board. I think Ms.Chacon has a unique teaching style, that I've adapted too. She is perfect in every way."

Ms. Ziemer works with her students, Caitlin Rockwell and Tammy Vo, '10, to help sort through file folders in order to organize Senior portfolios. "Ms. Ziemer is the funniest teacher I know, she acts like one of us, and she is really cool," Vo says. She is creating Senior portfolio examples for students to use.

1) EmmaRose Williams, '11, writes down important facts about the memoir Walden on their poster while Alexandra Pahl Skinner, '11, draws and colors in a picture representing key points from their notes.

2) ELD students Alex Lam, and Jiemin Li, '12, pantomine Native Americans shwoing Pilgrims, Avryl Serrano, Aaron Cen, and Orkham Mumkhbar, '13, how to plant corn in an re-enactment of the first Thanksgiving.

Although the task seems daunting, completing the book helps these AP students get a better understanding of all the different aspects of the book. The students knowledge gained from both books will later help enhance their writing styles.

Freshman Zolboo Namkhaidorj listens attentively as Mr. Martin lectures about the importance of the novel, The King Must Die. Many of these students take the time to look over sections of the book, while forming opinions in their heads in order to be prepared to answer follow up questions about the novel.

What is the best part about Journalism and what is your job as a journalist?

Isaac Everett, '12

Being in Journalism gives me the voice I wouldn't have if I wasn't in Journalism. I get to write articles for the school paper, and editors make sure that any mistakes are corrected.

Richard Alexander, '10

I had always been interested in writing and being a journalist, so I really enjoy being able to come up with interesting stories to be printed in The Oak Leaf.

The hardworking staff sits in the computer lab, concentrating on typing up their dynamic stories to be published soon. Senior Annie Murray, "Buzz" Editor, says, "the freedom of being in Journalism is great, and I get to do what I love, which is to write."

1.Sophomore Katie Mandell focuses only on getting her story into the computer to later be read by any students of Alameda High School, who are looking forward to a good story.

2.Junior Marissa Harris says, "I have to focus hard because of the intimidation of all the people who have been in Journalism longer and have more experience than I do."

How has Leadership changed you?

Megan Yee, '12

"This is my first year as part of the Leadership class. It has helped me learn to work with other students and work in high pressured situations. While working with other people as a unit, I want to be seen as a voice for the students."

Kyle Leong, '11

"I have been in Leadership for two years now. I want to change how the school works and how the administration looks at the kids. This class has helped me become more responsible and has taught me how to deal with authority."

Seniors Amy DeSmidt, Stephanie Chan, Annie Choi and Joanna Louie discuss future events that will be happening at AHS. All four seniors have experience being leaders in and out of school. DeSmidt and Chan are both club presidents, Louie is Senior class president and Choi has a job at Kumon.

Winnie Chen, '12, quickly, but thoroughly completes a poster that is to be hung up for everyone to see. Leadership does a lot of events and fundraisers to help support each class, but it is the students like Chen who make it happen. It is Chen's ambition and determination to complete all her assignments that qualifies her as one of the great leaders who help run Alameda High School.

Junior Tee Tselmegtsetseg and Sophomore Cynthia Yee search the internet to find inspiration for different ways to fundraise. Tselmegtsetseg and Yee both are glad that they are a part of leadership because they find that it is important to have a voice in the school. These girls feel like being in leadership gives them representation of their class.

Juniors, Ryan Hunter and MaryKim Hoang, patiently raise their hands so that they can answer the question being posed. "The class can constantly be chaotic, but I think that it is important to be patient in any situation," says Hunter. How do you feel Marketing has prepared you for life after high school?

Amanda Duong, '10

"We gain a lot of experience for the field that we want to work in. I would like to major in business or communications and being in this class has really helped me understand how these fields work. "

Kevin Stein '10

"I've been in the class for four years. I have learned a lot about how business works. It has taught me that the behind the scenes process is a lot more complicated than I once thought. "

1) Kevin Stein and Jerry Hua Xu, both Seniors, set up the entrance for the marketing classes Halloween Fund raiser, sponsored by the Gallagher and Lindsey Realtors. The children who attended were able to get tattoos, face paint, cookies, and had the opportunity to jump in an inflatable jumper.

2) Alameda High students swarm the Hive at break. The Hive is managed by Marketing II students. Everyday they work the Hive, take stock of their goods and record sales At break everyday, students go to the Hive to purchase various snacks and other items, ranging from pencils to chap stick.

Chris Padilla does an ollie on his skateboard while holding a "got milk" sign. For the Marketing I classes, the students had to make advertisements for milk products. This project allowed them to show their creativity and ingenuity.

Joanna Tangpos, jumps behind a wooden cut out of "Super Jane", the mascot of the See Jane Run breast cancer awareness run.

Amanda Duong and Wendy Li, Seniors, clean up after the See Jane Run event. The event was meant to raise money and awareness for breast cancer. Their jobs including picking up trash, setting up and taking down tables and cheering on the runners. Both of these girls have been in Marketing for four years.

Senior Jo Pak diligently takes notes during the Nor-Cal Leadership Development Conference. At this conference a lot of information is thrown at the students, with the intention of improving their business skills.

In a Halloween Fund raiser for DECA on Webster Street, Senior Wendy Li watches fellow Senior Amanda Duong place orange streamers in a tree.

Members of Ms. Sydow's Marketing II class stand before the finish line of the See Jane Run breast cancer awareness fundraiser. These students went with the DECA club. Many of the students enjoyed the after ceremony, where both runners and bikers were awarded for their efforts in the race.

L. Reynolds, S. Johnson, C. Padilla, K. Stein, T. Vo, J. Pak J. Hua Xu A. Buyan Urt and A. Gebreyesus, all members of Alameda High's DECA club attended the Nor-Cal Leadership Development Conference in San Ramon. There, with Ms. Sydow they attended numerous seminars where they learned about time management, public speaking and leadership.

Tim Han 10', throws a ball in a box as Bryan Lee 10' and other Sports Marketing students watch on.

Ashley Hom, Shannon Skiles and Julia Mainaga, all Seniors, pose for their "Got Milk" advertising projects. These help the students learn the basics of marketing.

Junior Jenny Liang holds up a medal she received at the Northern California Career Development Conference for being a finalist in Technical Sales. She had to successfully sell a GPS system to a pretend large company, along with scoring well on a 100 question multiple choice test. She did particularly well on this, especially since this is her second year in the class.

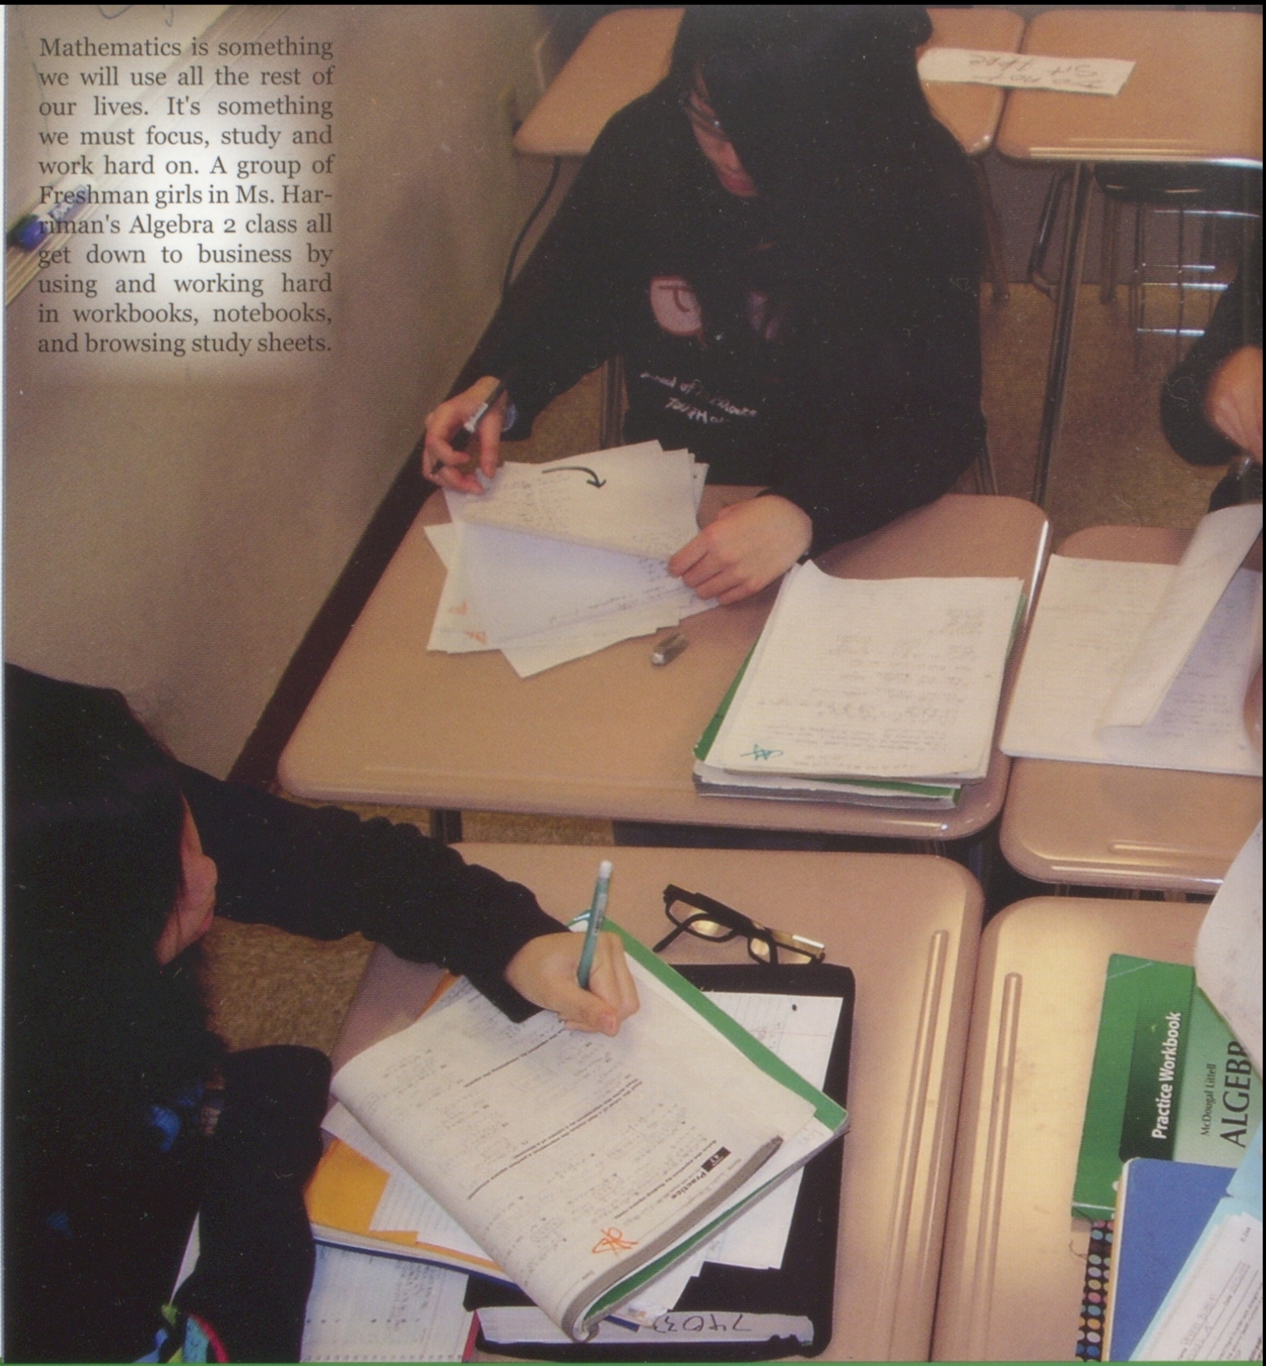
How do you set yourself up for success?

Kenny Thon, '13

"I am doing well in this class because my homework is easy and so are the tests because Ms. Macy explains them the day before. I've learned many things such as proofs and theorems through intense note taking."

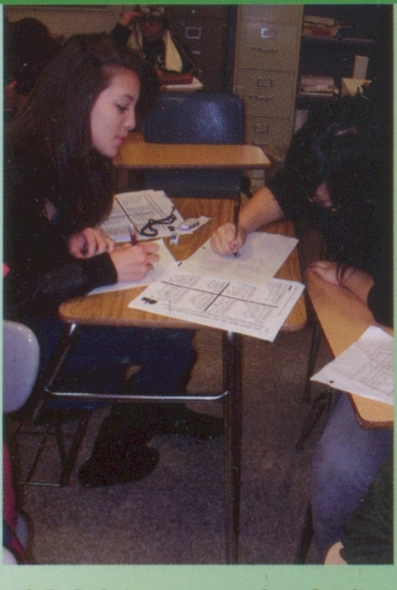
Lori Nguyen '11

"I work with friends at study hall almost every Tuesday and it helps my grade and my study habits a lot. So with all the studying, the tests are quite easy and also because she allows me to use a page of notes."

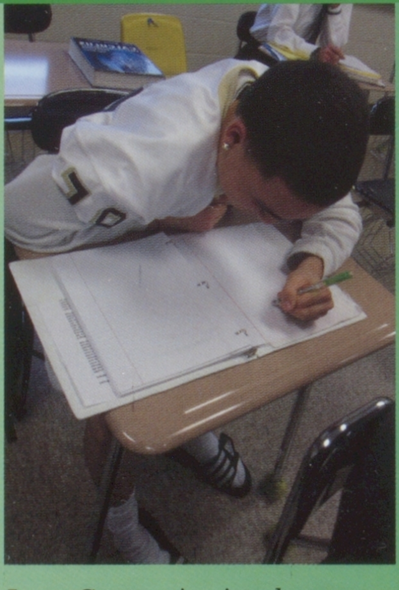


Mathematics is something we will use all the rest of our lives. It's something we must focus, study and work hard on. A group of Freshman girls in Ms. Harriman's Algebra 2 class all get down to business by using and working hard in workbooks, notebooks, and browsing study sheets.

Jonathan Lau and Carson Cheung, both Seniors, study for an upcoming test with the help of technology and each other. They also prepare by doing some homework and listening to music that helps stimulate the brain.



While helping one another do class work, Jasmine Padilla and Victoria Tsong, '12, both actively work together to complete their assignments. Both of the girls constantly persevere to get their homework packets done so they'll be ahead of the rest of the class.



Jesse Groves, '10, jots down notes for a test. "I always copy down the notes from the overhead and study them every night before a big exam. Getting A's on tests is my greatest math experience, it's very fullfilling to get good grades," says Groves.

Diligently working, Princess Estrella, '12 concentrates on doing her Algebra 2, worksheets with her brain and a calculator. She also uses her notebook to help guide her with the difficult problems.

1) Students in Mr. Byon's Geometry class all concentrate on doing their very best and working to get a good grade on a tiring and troublesome test.

2) As Ms. Harriman explains an intricate Advanced Algebra 2 problem, many eager Freshman look on and scribble notes to get the fullest of their learning in the otherwise puzzling class.

3) Seniors Damon Wong, Aaron Soo Hoo, and Vincent Lee use their heads to help each other through some time-consuming math problems and discuss the answers with pleasure.

4) Khiry Espino, '10, flips through his math textbook for study help and also starting his long night of working on homework.

1)Brian Lin ,'11, concentrates hard when writing and studying his notes. He shares some of his studying techniques with us, "I study by reading the material three times over and make a study card to quiz myself. These techniques really are helpful and make learning so much easier."

2) Connor Reed, '11, shares his best-loved mathematics jokes. "Why was six afraid of seven?" "Because Seven ate Nine!" Or, "The best computer the one between your ears!"These jokes make learning and notetaking a lot more fun and easy to get the knack of. Here, Reed prepares to start his Algebra 2 homework.

King Louis XVI and Marie Antoinette are acted by Sam Rausser, '12, and Markia Tsagris, '12 . The King and Queen of France are ruling over their nobles and clergy to help better understand the French Revolution and the beginning of the Reign of Terror.

Isabel Tager, '13, has been in The Academy for a year.

The Academy teacher Ms. Turpin has been teaching for twelve years and enjoys teaching at Alameda High.

The Academy, a school withing a school, is in the process of changing its focus. Historically, it was technology but now that computers are ubiquitous at AHS, The Academy is determining what it should BE.

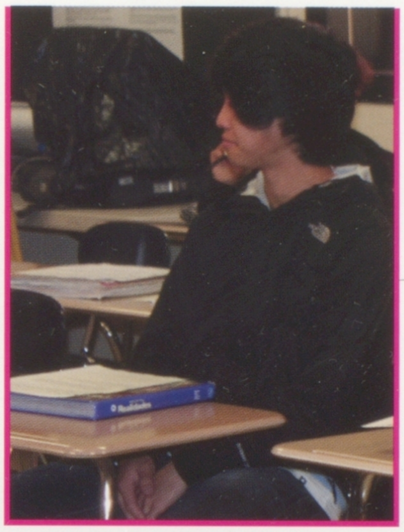
What's your favorite part about the Academy?

"I have been in The Academy for four years and it has helped me keep my grades up. I like doing all of the PowerPoints instead of writing."

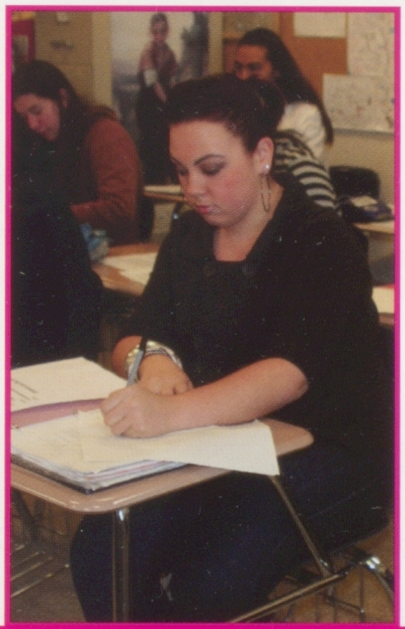
-Emilio Garcia-Sanchez '10

"This is my second year in The Academy I absolutely love it. The class helps me a lot because I'm not swamped with homework everynight."

Ro-Ro Lyons '11

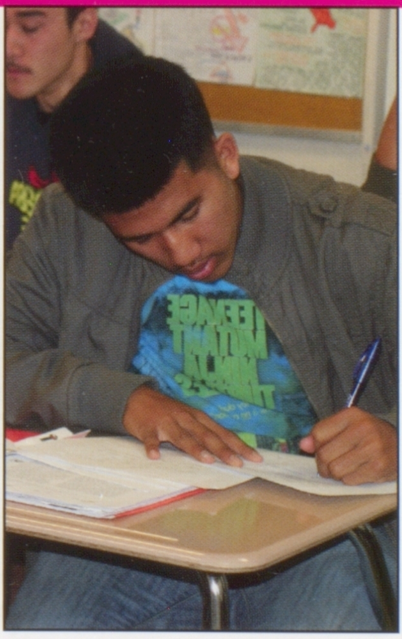


Brandon Ng '12 quitely sits in class during the discussion of the Enlightenment in Europe. Ng enjoys his teachers and has been in The Academy for a year and enjoys being in it.



Jennifer Cummings, '10, takes notes during a lecture for helpful tips on her bill.

Marisa Araujo, '10, thoughtfully writes a response for a quick write about a bill she will have to write for government class in the near future.



Calvin Danh, '10, takes careful notes for rules on the bill that he will write for his class. He may have the chance to present his bill at Mock Congress in the spring.

The tests to me are the hardest, because they require thinking and you actually have to take the time and study the handouts in order to get a good grade.

Amber Lopez, '12

When you have to flip people over, because sometimes you will have to flip people who are bigger than you and that gets really challenging at times.

1) Freddy Tam '12 steps up to his lane to bowl a strike and complete an exciting game. Bowling is one of the sports that every Sophomore does, and it's a privilege everyone loves, due to the trip to the local bowling alley.

2) Tessa Russell Harde '13 supports her assigned basketball team by blocking Remy McCon '13 as she tries to score a basket. Using a defensive position, Harde relentlessly keeps the ball away from the opposing team.

3) Hon Sing Choi, '11, and Sammy Huang, '11, partner up and practice their throws on the mat. "Judo is a healthy excerise and you get to learn how to protect yourself. My favorite part is learning how to do the correct roll because it won't hurt the neck or the head," exclaims Sammy Huang

2) Alex Lee'11 and Alex Yee '12 spend the last half hour of Judo practicing the techinques they just learned on one another. "I've been doing Judo for about four years and it's very interesting martial art. I enjoy practicing the throws and throwing people around on the mat," says Yee.

What was your favorite science lab?

Andrew Oducyan, '10

I would say my favorite lab is the ecocolumns lab. We had the chance to work with a lot of fun materials. We were able to do interesting things such as, checking for nitrogen levels in the soil.

Joe Ruck, '13

"My favorite lab would probably be when we burned peanuts and cheetos to find out which one has more cholesterol. I really liked it because it was fun to be able to light things on fire and burn them."

Hector Lopez, Ilse Villacorta, and Yip Fai Sin, '10, are performing one of the many steps in constructing an ecocolumn. All of the ecocolumns consist of ingredients that can be found in our environment. Sin then records all observations, no matter how minute they are. Later on, when they check on the ecocolumn again, they can see if any changes occurred that they may have missed by referring to their notes. The notes also help when they have to do a write up of their lab explaining all the changes that occurred. Then they apply their observations to what goes on in the environment around them.

1. Jessica Ravetti and Kaitlyn Owyang, '13, work with molecule balls in order to understand the anatomy of objects. The students constructing different shapes, then refer to the handout to see if their experiments were true.
2. Ryan Carlson, '11, and Leona Chow, '10, listen patiently as Dr. Griffith lectures to her AP Environmental Science class about material that will be on their final. She does this to help the students prepare so they can study.
3. Damon Wong, '10, closely observes his ecocolumn to see if there are any changes to it since the time he constructed it. He records all of his observations so he can compile information for a report later.

2. Michelle Licea, '11, applies force as hard as she can with the meter stick to only the brick on the bottom layer. By doing so, she removes the bottom layer yet the top layers do not change, similar to the scenario of pulling a tablecloth off a table laden with plates and food.

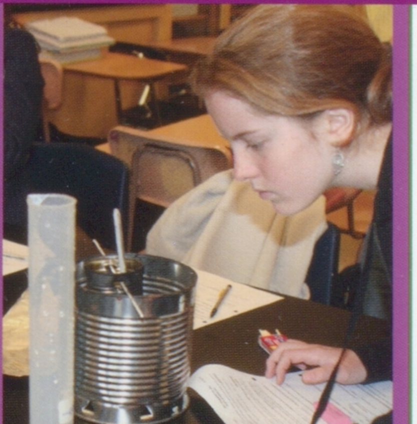
Mr. Wilson does this experiment as a means to have the students visualize what is happening. This experiment is a constant favor to many students as there is the involvment of fire.

Alex Cardenas, '11, throws the ball to batter Adebusola Fashokun, '10, showing physics in motion. All three of Newton's famous laws are displayed and the students take a video and turn it into a Power Point, teaching their peers aspects of physics that apply to that particular sport.



Isabel Saxy, '13, observes her experiment and detects all elements of it, and then proceeds to write it down in her notes. She compares her results to the book to see if they are similar.

Joseph Yates, '10, looks at his finished product and wonders if he can do anymore to modify it. After a project is done the carpenter has to measure it and make sure it is the exact size wanted. Boards are wasted when they have marks and scratches on them, but not in Woodshop. Yates uses old beat up boards for his project and it still works. If the marks are on the inside where people cant see them then it is all right.

Michael Figeroa, Anthoney Waters, Brian Arnold, and Matt Dias Hammond, '10, from left to right are working on a cement pour to make a cinder block. It is a four person job, so every person has one task to do, instead of one person doing multiple tasks at a time.

Patrick Brown, '10, is working on drawing out his project before he builds it. Drawing out projects and planning is a big part in making a good project. Straight edges and correct drawings are a must for constructing a well-built Woodshop project.

Thomas Lilliston, '10, cuts a piece of wire. In Woodshop there is a tool for almost every kind of material. When students use tools like wire cutters it is necesary becareful. It is easy to get hurt in a class like this.

Lawrece Fong, Alex Lam, and Jimmy Song, '11 right to left, measure boards and materials for a project .Working together in Woodshop is a big help because sometimes a carpenter need partners to hold one end of the project while one person measures a side. Working together is also fun because students get to talk to their friends while they complete their task.

Woodshop by [Daniel Liang and Kevin Kinney]

A normal day in woodshop consists of a lecture by Mr. Wocicki teaching the class about tools and how to go about starting and finishing a project. A normal project in Woodshop takes about one month to finish completely. After a project is done, the carpenter have to apply the finishing touches. Sanding a project is as important as constructing it. Sanding makes the object smooth and easy to handle, when a carpenter use it.

What was your favorite project you built this year?

Bryan Arnold, '10

The best project I made was my wooden chair that took me one month. I spent my time on this to make it sturdy and comfortable.

Michael Figueroa, '10

My proudest accomplishment is the staircase I built at the start of the year. It was part of a beginning project whose purpose was to help us learn the basics of the class.

During class, measuring tools are needed to get the exact angle of pieces of wood and boards. Triangles rulers and other tools are needed in math as well as in Wooshop. Max Seagren, and Manuchar Khajuandi, '10, listen as Mr. Wocicki lectures on what the day's schedule is going to be and what they need to get finished that day. Construction is about getting the task completed when the teacher needs it done right away. The class is a combination of Woodshop and construction which teaches the students various amounts of skills that should be needed and used later on in life when you get a job with those techniques.

Did you feel more excited coming to Alameda High as a Freshman or Sophomore?

Anjelica Ambrosini

"I was happy to come back to school as a Sophomore because I'm now considered a part of the upperclassmen. Although freshman year was fun, I hope this year is better!"

Gabi Dugamin

"I was more excited coming to school as a Freshman because it was a new experience for me. But now that I'm a Sophomore I already know what to expect."

Boyang Gai

"Freshman. As a Freshman I got to make new friends and meet new people because no one had designated groups or anything yet. Also it's a lot easier to make Freshman sports teams."

Who is your biggest inspiration or role model?

Hannah Slicton-Williams

"I don't really have a role model. I try to be an individual and not like any one person. But if I had to choose, it would be Mr. Chacon. He is a fun-loving person full of spunk, despite his age!"

Anderw Courtland

"I would have to say my dad. When he was younger he didn't get a lot of support from his parents, which was hard on him. But he worked hard and is now very successful."

How has Alameda High School changed over the years?

Mr. Maiers

I started here in 1984, when the makeup of the student body was about 60% Caucasian and 20% Asian. Now, it's around 48% Asian and 30% Caucasian. Also, the number of AP classes we offer has increased. Students used to not be able to take more than two.

Ms. Falletti

Since I went to school here, I can tell that the academics are harder because there's such a larger competition for students to get into colleges. The kids have a lot more freedom. Some should learn to be more respectful to adults and each other. I don't like the dancing styles now.

Ms. Chin

Less students are getting suspended. People are behaving more. Attendance is getting better; there are fewer tardies and absences.

What is your favorite childhood memory?

Ms. Wong

"A favorite memory was hanging out with my uncle because he would always take me everywhere."

Mr. Byon

"Eating plenty of candy, Christmas mornings and getting A's on my schoolwork."

Mr. Mathieson

"Going to Disneyland when I was four. I remember the Tram. And the submarines: 20,000 Leagues Under the Sea. The cement was still wet; they had just finished the park."

What is the most gratifying thing about being a teacher?

Mr. Hardin

"I like working with students."

Mr. Manno

"The steady paycheck. No, the knowledge that I'm affecting the future generation; knowing that I'll be here forever in the unborn generation, for eons to come."

Ms. Sarvey

"Nurturing my students. I get to help them grow mentally and emotionally. Watching them progress throughout the year, helping their self-esteem grow, and helping them become better problem solvers."

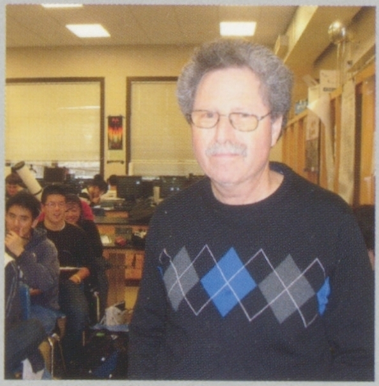
What is your favorite topic to teach throughout the school year?

Dr. Dauber



"I like teaching relativity. It's fascinating and surprising. It makes you think."

Dr. Griffith

"Trash. For a project, my students have to carry their trash with them for a week. By doing that, they realize how much there actually is, so yeah. I like to make kids carry trash."

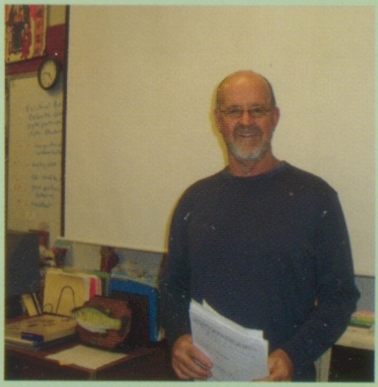
When you were a kid, what did you dream of being when you grew up?

Ms. Austin

"A teacher. I loved the idea of school: pencils, desks, books. We used to play school, and I'd be the teacher. I haven't always been a teacher though."

Mr. Caziarc



"I thought I would be a marine biologist, but in college I realized I wasn't prepared for the sciences. I was always really into nature. I played with lizards and bugs, and had pet mice and snakes."

SPEEDY

What do you like about running Cross Country?

I get to meet Sophomores, Juniors and Seniors. It's cool to see them around school and say "hi." It's also more fun to run with a team than run alone because you get to talk to people.

-Stephen Carlson '13

I love running with a team. It is the main reason I do it. I've made friends with people I normally wouldn't be friends with. I joined to get in shape and have been running since my Freshman year. It was something new and different and the people seemed nice.

-M. Singer-Milnes '10

The JV boys take off after the starter shoots his gun. Running at Crab Cove, their home course, these runners feel at ease against the other teams. Led by Freshman Stephen Carlson and Sophomore Emmanual Boquiren, the J.V. team placed first overall with eight runners in the top ten. This year the J.V. boys have done consistently well in all of their races.

The Varsity girls begin their second loop of the three-mile Crab Cove course. Along their excursion, Freshman Julia Fanger and Junior Dominica Vitucci pass a Piedmont Runner in hopes of catching up to Freshman Emma Fraser and Senior Megan Goldspring.

Senior Charlie Perkins finishes far ahead of all the other runners. At the Farmer Invitational, the Alameda Cross Country Team's first invitational, Perkins scored first overall, with a time of 15:28 for a three-mile race. This time shattered his old personal record by thirty seconds. It also gave him the top spot on Alameda's all time record for that course. Because of his and the other Varsity boys' efforts, the team placed second out of the 20 teams attending.

Seniors Brandon Sepp and Hector Lopez-Garcia review their race with their coach Nino Hernandez. The Artichoke Invitational in Half Moon Bay is known for its large hills. Despite this challenge, these runners did exceptionally well, with Lopez-Garcia running a time of 12:37 Sepp running a time of 13:11. Their good performance helped their team place second out of 32.

Led by Senior Stephanie Chan, Junior Dominica Vitucci, Sophomore Lindsi Tu and Freshman Emma Fraser Alameda Varsity start their race at Crab Cove. Because this is their home course, they run here often. This, however, does not make the three-mile race any easier. In this particular race, the girl's main competition was Piedmont High, who took first by a mere 3 points. Alameda's team was led by Freshman Kelly Hosokawa who took fourth over all. She was followed shortly by Senior Gina Salerno, who took seventh place. Both the Varsity and J.V. teams did well in their races. The J.V. girls placed first over all , taking the top four spots.

Senior Zach Perkins leads a group of runners up a hill at the Artichoke Invitational. He placed 3rd overall with a time of 12:18. The team did well, placing second out of a total of 32 teams.

Freshman Utieyin Etchie finishes her first mile of the Crab Cove course. This is her first year running for Alameda High's Cross Country team.

Sophomore Nick Lui talks with Freshmen Stephen Carlson and Mitchell Quon after their tiring race. During their cool down run, these three, along with the rest of the team go over the race. These runs allow the runners to figure out what they did wrong and what they did right. It is also a good way for the team to bond.

To kill time before her race Freshman Naomi Chan plays a game with her teammate. In the background Senior Gina Salerno begins to cheer on the girls' J.V. team who will run by shortly. This type of cheering is common at Cross Country meets; it is the sign of a close team.

1) Tomas Martinez-Granada '12, vigorously practices his punting in order to perfect his performance in the game.

2) Frank Muzio, '12, has his own method to prepare before a game, "I put on my equipment and eye black. I also prepare myself mentally by listening to rap music, it calms my nerves so I can relax. I pray for our team and the opposing team so no one gets hurt and we have a safe game."

The defensive linemen get off to destroy the opposing team's offense. The quarterback prepares to receive the ball and make the play by either throwing or running. The game is won by the linemen battling in the trenches because they have to be aggressive in their tackles in order to protect the quarterback. A good defense for them is just as vital as a good offense.

Band members that frequent the game include Max Lytle, '12, Drayson Ngiraingas, '13, Garren Orr, 10, Symeon Tzvetkov, '10, and Kevin Yu, '11. For the first year, Band joins along with the fans to cheer on the game. Hopefully this is a precedent for the years to come, so the team realizes it is backed up by the student body, no matter the outcome of the game. Knowing they have encouragement and support from their peers boosts the players' confidence, so they try their best to play a good game and make everyone proud. Lytle explains, "It was really exciting and fun. It was the first time we all get together and played for the school and cheered for the team."

1)Having practiced, running back, Tuan Vo, '11, is prepared to shrug off tackles.

2) The Varsity team shows its united front before the game with the Senior captains Jeremy Yu, Tim Han, Qais Shaghasi, and Ben Paik. "I trust the players to do their job just as well as I would when I'm out there. When everybody does their job, there's no stopping us."- Qais Shaghasi '10

Have you ever been severely injured due to Football? What happened?

"Yeah, I got hurt during my junior year when we were playing a game. It turned out that I hyper extended my knee. It was bad, and I was out for three weeks."

-Keith Murray, '10

"Well, last year I got a concussion from a game against Berkeley. During the play I cut out right and then it went black. I don't really remember what happened after that. The coaches said I walked to the bench by myself, with my eyes rolled in the back of my head. After that, I was taken to the ER. Since this is my second concussion I have to be careful playing. "

-Derric Lee, '11

Perspiring from a hard game with Pinole, the Varsity team raises its helmets in victory. The players tend to commemorate their triumph together, "Most of the team goes to hang out or we all eat dinner together. When we are at away games, we celebrate on the bus," affirms Stanley Tu '10. Other teammates also have their own way of celebrating, "I like to hang out with my girlfriend," Keith Murray '10 adds.

Senior Ashley Lopes prepares her serve while playing number two doubles on the Varsity team. Lopes has been playing tennis since she was five.

Sophomore Sarah Huie hits a cross court forehand off the ground. Huie has been playing tennis for two years. She also plays off-season as a member of USTA.

Michelle Loo, Senior, plays number one doubles on the varsity team. Loo says that, "sportsmanship is the key to success."

Here, some members of the Varsity tennis gather together to pump each other up before a match. "Usually players share secret information on how to beat the other girl before matches," says Sophomore Sarah Huie.

After a rocky start, the members of the team worked hard, both mentally and physically, to push forward. They earned another year of being ACCAL champions.

Coaches Mandondo Ivy and Evelyn Courtland work together to figure out the best line up. This is the first coaching year for both coaches. Through all the issues after losing last year's coach, these two, and Coach Kirk Wong, have pulled together to have an undefeated season.

Above, Freshman Samatha Sato hits a forehand volley while playing in this year's Fresno tournament. Sato is on the Varsity team and plays number three doubles.

Right, Sophomore Sarah Huie practices her backhand, picking up her feet to improve her balance. Huie plays number three or four singles on the Varsity team.

Senior Sarah Courtland serves the ball while eyeing her opponent. This is Courtland's second year as number one singles on the varsity team and captain. "I love the sport and would love to play college tennis at UC Davis." says this Senior. She plays outside of the season also as a member of USTA. She is ranked 42 in the girls 18 category.

Audrey Yeung, Junior, hits a down the line forehand during a league match. Yeung has been playing singles on the school team for three years. She plays outside of the school season in tournaments. In the USTA girls 16 rankings, she is ranked 25 out of 309 girls in Northern California.

1.) Senior Michelle Loo has been playing tennis for four and a half years and has been on the Alameda High varsity team for four years. She says, "I play tennis because I love the sport. It combines physical and mental toughness." This year, Loo plays number one doubles and has only been defeated twice. "I am pretty confident that the team will win ACCAL this year and do well in NCS. We have a good team this year and I am especially happy that we dominated over Berkeley again." Although Michelle Loo loves the game, she is working hard to become a journalist and live in New York.

2.) Isabella Hamilton, Sophomore, has been playing tennis for one year. She says that the "team chemistry this year rocks, we are all good friends, like a band of sisters. The team relationships are extremely strong and we correspond well with each other." Hamilton is the most eccentric players on the team and brings a lot of energy to the courts.

3.) The members of the Varsity team gather together as the captains, Courtland and Loo, read off their line up against the opposing team. "After every name is called, we cheer as loud as we can, especially when we played our rivals Berkeley," says Freshman Samatha Sato.

How do you prep yourself for a match?

"I prep myself for a match by mostly eating. I eat cheese bread at Panera or plain masubis at Hawaiian Drive-In. At the courts, we start off by hitting short court, then we back up and hit cross court. Also, after we call the line up we all gather around and scream our cheer. Sometimes I listen to songs, such as "Party In the USA" by Miley Cyrus.

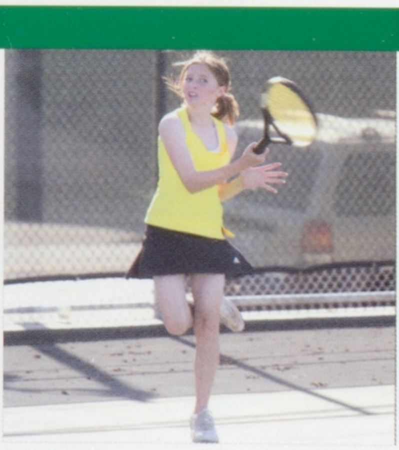
-Ashley Lopes, '10

"Before a match, I prep myself by listening to music. It helps me get pumped up and ready. I also prep myself by talking a lot. I sometimes talk to myself while I'm on the court. I tell myself that the opposing player is the enemy and to get angry while playing. It helps me focus and calm my nerves down. But during match point, I don't think, I just play.

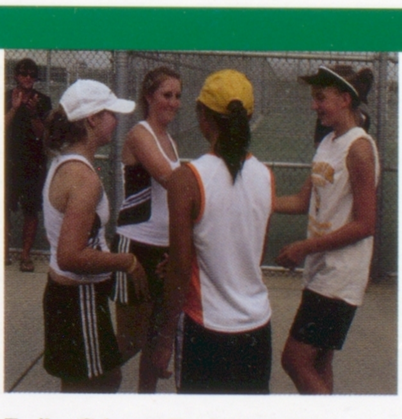
-Isabella Hamilton, '12

Cynthia Yee, Sophomore, practices her returns while playing doubles. This is Yee's first year on the Alameda High School Women's Tennis team.

Sophomore Marissa Lee has been on the Varsity team for two years. Lee smashes a backhand down the line during a extremely competitive match.



Lauren Parsons, Freshman, shifts her weight to one foot during a forehand shot to add velocity. Parsons has been playing tennis for four years.



Emily Grimm, Freshman, plays on the varsity team as number three doubles. "The sport is fun and one of the few sports that I can play with my friends and family," says Grimm.

Anne Barcelona

What's your good luck charm?

"My ratty old knee pads that I've had since Freshman year. They have a bunch of holes and are so worn down that you can actually see the padding that's inside. Even though they don't give much support they have given me the comfort I need to play hard in the games. Thinking about it, I realized I have never played with any other knee pads."

-Valerie Fong, '11

"I would have to say my water bottle because everytime I bring it to away games we win. Oh, but, there was this one day when I forgot to bring it to our game against Arroyo. We ended up losing the game and it really sucked. I felt like I could have played better if I had my water bottle with me. Since then I never forget to bring it on game days."

-Gabrielle Obando, '13

Before each game the team comes together to cheer each other on and to pump themselves up. According to both teams, bonding and being supportive have not been a problem this year. "The team work is the best part about volleyball; everyone's working together towards a common goal," said Varisty player Frankie Wilcox, '12. Making volleyball shirts and coming up with team cheers is a way of building a stronger relationship with one another. During practices the team always shares laughs while still being able to stay focused and improve skills. Everyone is supportive whether they win or lose. "It's fun being on the team. It's like a second family," said Junior Varsity player Alyssa Francisco, '13.

Varsity player, Jennifer Kam, '10, leaps into the air to deliver a hit that will leave the other team burning with revenge.

Junior Varsity player, Helene Takamura, '13, initiates a pass in order to secure the proper play so that the Hornets crush the opposing team.

Junior Varsity player, Gia Morten, '12, does a 180 and delivers a back pass so that the ball stays in play. Morten plays aggressively as a middle hitter and is responsible for sending over a vicious hit.

While playing against Arroyo High, Varsity player Nadya Machrus, '11, goes for a dig to help set up an excellent play against her opponents. Machrus' teammates sit on the side line cheering her on, giving her the support she needs to play hard.

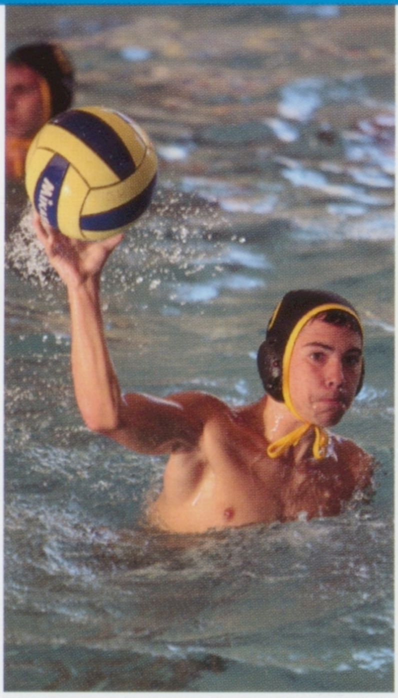
Concentrating intently, Junior Evan Shum searches for a teammate to pass to in order to score a point. By this game he had achieved two steals, four goals and three assists. Shum has been swimming for six years but would rather play a team sport like waterpolo. Shum states "The best part about waterpolo is the workout and during the season, we can eat whatever we. Before a game I snack on a little chocolate, a few nuts, a power bar and drink gatorade."

Co-coach Taylor Seals gathers up the JV team members for a quick pep-talk to encourage them to play their best during a vigorous game against Berkeley High School. He was on the team a few years ago, and he uses his experiences to give advice. He knows about the pressure that comes with playing on the team and knows how to handle it when it comes down to the last few minutes of the game.



While warming up for the game Sophomore Émile Siroit practices shooting goals which helps prepare himself for the first game of the season.

The time is ticking and Senior Nick Olsen throws a powerful pass to a fellow teammate as the pressure builds inside him and he has a rush of intensity. He was able to get five steals, three assists, and nine goals against Encinal High School and Daugherty Valley.

Strategically capable, Daniel Daniel, '11, leaps from the pool to demolish his opponent and establish a strong foundation for the freshly started game.

what was your most severe injury?

"During an intense game, I dislocated my shoulder. I wasn't in any pain because of the adrenaline rush. I popped it back in twenty minutes later. A little bit after that I was still able to participate in the game. Even though I received this minor setback I was still determined to win because I always want to beat my opponents. "

-Ryan McDaniels, '10

"My injury happened during practice while our team was warming up with a run. I had felt like I rolled my ankle. I ended up being out for six months, which meant I couldn't play. This made me feel very sad. I also felt like I was looking down on myself. Instead I supported my team in different ways and cheering them on. "

-Sody Enkhbayar, '11

Varsity Steven Tom examines the pool in hopes of seeking an open teammate to pass along the ball while being blocked.

Real thrill seeker, JV player Galen Lam, calmly waits to strike at the perfect moment to obtain another point for his team in order to be victorious. He shares, "I always feel mentally prepared and try to stay focused during the game. When I am playing I try to think of a song to help me concentrate."

Freshman Dennis Wong states, "During a game, I feel really exhilarated all I can think about is winning and helping my teammates. We support each other during the games. Also I feel twice as intense when nearing the end of the game."

How do you prepare before a game?

"Before a game I like to listen to good songs on my iPod. In the morning I like to eat a big bowl of Capn' Crunch cereal so my body is ready for the game. The night before I have a game, I like to have a nice dinner with my parents. I am not allowed to eat dairy because it sits in my stomach and I don't want to cramp during a game. The coaches tell us it is best to eat fruit before a game."

-Hannah Slicton-Williams '12

"The morning of a game I try to eat somewhat of a healthy breakfast and not Lucky Charms. I also make sure to eat a healthy lunch so I am filled up for the game and can play my best. Before a game I make sure I don't let anything distract me so I can be focused. I also like to listen to my iPod before I get dressed before the game."

-Anna Soskin '11

Junior Julia McLean stealthily passes the ball to an open teammate. With three defenders on her, McLean knows she has to get rid of the ball so it won't get stolen by the opposing team.

Sophomore Courtney Winterbauer throws the ball to another member of her team over the hand of the opposing team member before she can block the shot. Winterbauer has been playing for two years now and enjoys the sport a lot.

Senior Marlena Nip darts the ball towards a open teammate, who might have a better chance of scoring. Passing the ball is very important especially if there is someone guarding you, as opponent #5 is doing.

What inspired you to start basketball?

"I got into playing just because a lot of my friends play. Now I've been playing for about nine years. I honestly had no idea I was going to make Varsity this year. The experience just comes hand in hand because I still get nervous sometimes."
-Jesse Lewis, '13

"In like 6th grade a lot of my friends started to play basketball and I decided to take up the sport too. It's fun to play because I like the competition. Competing with people always gets my adrenaline pumping! One thing I wish I could do is dunk. I have a lot of respect for people who can, because it's not an easy thing to do.
-Zac Alfers, '12

The Alameda High School Women's Basketball team has always been one of the most spirited teams at our school. From their team chants at the beginning of each home game, to breaking out dance moves in the locker room, to sweating out games and practices, this team definitely lives the saying "one for all and all for one."

Chiarra Duncan,'10, runs down a line of the rest of her fellow Varsity teammates and high fives them eagerly. This is a ritual before every game that the team participates in. All the starting players line up, and run down an aisle of the remaining players one by one. This is a great way to show sportsmanship towards each other and shows how close of a team they truly are. Duncan says "I love the run down, high-fiveing aisle that we make. It gives me an adrenaline rush and I feel like I can really count on my team."

Brianna Ramos, '12, clearly focusing on the hoop, prepares to shoot the ball and make a point. "An important part of playing basketball is to really focus on your movements," say Ramos.

Ananda Gebreyesus, '10, controls the ball with her left hand and pushes herself on her left foot to rush the net. She has been on the varsity team for four years. Gebreyesus plans to possibly play basketball in college, but also wants to pursue soccer as well.

What does it take to be a basketball player?

"To be a basketball player, you really need to want it and give it your all. You gotta deal with a lot of stress, but you must remember to leave your heart out on the court."

-Fiona Wong, '12

"It takes a lot of dedication, determination and commitment. You must be willing to give up a lot of your social life for practices and games. You've go to really try hard and have a mind set of wanting to improve. "Cheerleading is a great way to get exercise, gain sense of commitment and meet new people. I love it because it allows me to show my spirit and love for our school. It has helped me make lasting friendships with many of the other students on the team."

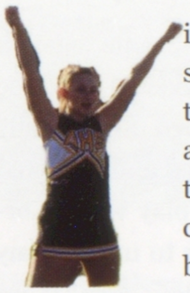
-Erika Greenley '10



"Cheerleading is one of those sports where the team becomes a family in the end. I like cheerleading because it is fun and I get to hang out with all my friends. I love the motivation it gives me for school and the confidence I get from playing. A person has to be dedicated and easy to get along with and everyone on the team is just like that. "

-Stephanie Keel Moore, '13

JV cheerleaders Keiko Tokuda, '13, and Vanessa Frandsen, '12, hold a winning pose at the end of their performance. "I like cheerleading because it's a good way to raise spirits," says Frandsen.

"My passion is in stunting because it's difficult, but when achieved, it can be exciting," says Carol Tam, '10. Tam has been cheering since middle school and is one of the main flyers on the Varsity team.

Sierra Calandri, '11, and Juliet Leonard, '13, both Varsity, smile as they transition into another position in their performance. "You need commitment, responsibility, and teamwork to be a cheerleader," says Leonard.

What was your most intense game?

Our game against Berkeley because they were the only team that beat us, putting us in second place for the league. We lost hope after the second goal because our goalie had tendonitis and her substitute was less trained. Berkeley was also consistent with their defense.

-Hannah Cunningham '11

My game against Berkeley because they are really good and I wanted to play well in order to impress my coach. Also, if we beat them twice, we would have been able to go to NCS.

-Evangel Davis '12

Defender, Emma Rose Williams, '11, runs as fast as she can to catch up to the ball before her opponent does. Williams' positions herself strategically in front of her opponent as a defensive mechanism to block the other player's path. This prevents them from getting to the ball before she does.

JV forward, Maddy Christ, '13, dribbles the ball down the field towards the opponent's goalie, watching for an opportune time to pass the ball or score a goal. Christ reveals, "I have been playing soccer since third grade and I really like it beause it is so fun!"

The team tries to pose for their final team picture of the season but the coach pushes Tessa Russel Harte, causing the whole team to fall like dominos. Harte recalls, "Getting pushed was really unexpected but funny. It was weird to just fall on the entire team"

Midfielder, Nadia Mouhzin, and Emily Quilici, '11, double team as an efficient method of guarding the ball from the other team. Quilici states, "Soccer gives me a rush to take the ball away from the other team. I love to play defense and I just really enjoy the sport."

1) JV midfielder, Elizabeth Cepernich, '13, tries to get the ball away from her opponent, going head to head, successfully getting the ball away from her opponent and to a teammate. Cerpernich started out at the age of seven, during an event at the local boys and girls club, and has been playing soccer ever since.

2) Varsity striker, Anshika Kumar, '13, kicks the ball as hard as she can. Kumar follows in the steps of her idol: "Mia Hamm inspires me of the way she plays. Because of soccer I get to spend so much time with the team and I like learning to trust each other."

3) Varisty Midfielder, Jamie Banks, '11, blocks an opponent's pathway to the ball.

4) Varsity Defender, Reyna Buzon, '13, kicks the ball as hard as she can towards the goal.

5) JV Goalie, Sydney Lewis, '12, successfully blocks the ball with her knee.

Defender, Alexandra Umeki, '10, passes the ball to her teammate, defender, Emily Quilici, '11, while midfielder, Roxy Guzman, '11, looks on to see if her intervention is needed when one of the opponent runs up from behind.

Varsity goalie, Stephanie Owyang, '11, shows endurance in the face of obstacles by rejoining the team after she injured a ligament in her knee that left her off the team during recovery. Owyang comments on her injury saying,"I tore my ACL Freshman year and this was my first session back playing soccer. I really enjoyed playing again." Since Owyang, as the goalie, is the only member of the team able to use her hand, she jumps as high as she can to catch the ball headed her way before the other team gets it and score a goal.

Sophomore Amir Razavi gets ready to take the ball back from the opponent and pass it up field to his team. "Staying focused in practice and learning how to get more touch on the ball" got Razavi to Varsity. He is doing well with the upperclassmen.

Freshman Duc Nguyen makes a move on the defender to go up field. Nguyen has been playing for nine years on various teams, such as Bay Oaks, Select, and Recreational. He plays forward, which requires a lot of concentration and complicated footwork to advance up the field.

Freshman Ivan Chavez was chosen to play on Varsity this year. He has been playing his whole life. "I like paying on turf because the game moves a lot faster." He says, "At practice, the drills are boring, but scrimmaging is fun."

Freshman Stephen Carlson gets ready for a throw in, and tries to take advantage of the free opportunity. This takes quite a bit of strength and caution, as to avoid losing his footing in the slippery mud at our home field. He started playing when he was seven because "everyone else started playing, too."

Senior Edgar Castaneda, one of the captains of the Varsity team, steals the ball from an opponent. Playing mid-field and left defense, he is always sure to get the ball often throughout the game. He has been playing soccer since he was five years old and played for two years with the Alameda Soccer Club before playing on Bay Oaks for four years.

1. Senior Taylor McLoughlin gets ready to clear the ball up field to his teammate. He says, "I like to play on muddy fields because the other teams aren't used to it and it's an advantage to me." McLoughlin says, "I like to talk to my friends as well as shred up the field at the same time."

2. Senior Ajaya Rana, one of the captains and most experienced players, raises his hand to catch a teammate's attention, so that he can make a successful pass.

The Junior Varsity soccer team and its dedicated coaches huddle together during half-time to discuss the strategy they plan to use during the second half of the game. The coaches try to give inspirational speeches to the kids, which will boost their confidence about the game.

At a home game, Junior Will Colvin prepares to launch the ball up the field. The team practices at Thompson Field everyday, but Colvin would rather play on turf because "it is easier to control the ball." He likes both home and away games because he likes a change of different fields.

Sophomore Declan Shener tries to defend the ball and keep it in his team's control by taking a leap into the air and headbutting the soccer ball in the opposite direction. In soccer, besides your feet, you can also use your head and some of your body parts, but of course not your hands, to control the ball.

What position do you play, and what is the most challenging thing about it?

"I play center middle. I try to set up shots for other people. The hardest part is communication because we have to yell really loud when it gets really intense."

-Mike Gee, '11

"I play left middle, and my job is to attack and defend. Defending is the most challenging part. It is hard because you get really tired and short of breath. What I love about soccer, though, is that it's a contact sport."

-Armando Leon, '13

Sophomore Kenneth Lee uses his body to block the ball from getting past him and into the control of the opposing team.

Junior Jack Baurber wrestles and tries to get the ball from the opposing team, while Freshman Stephen Carlson backs him in case help is needed. Baurber has been playing soccer for twelve years and plays midfield on JV. He says, "I like my position because I see a lot of the file and get to move around a lot."

STRATEGIC

Why did you choose badminton over the other sports?

I chose to play badminton over the other sports because it is a challenging sport. It takes a lot more strategy and work than what a lot of people think about this sport.

-Leonne Chung, '10

I chose to play badminton because I started playing at the East Bay Badminton Association. I immediately fell in love with the sport. So when I heard that there was a badminton team at Alameda High School I decided to join during my Freshman year.

-Hiu Hong Yu, '11

The Alameda High School co-ed badminton team huddles together before the match against Kennedy High School. Coach Ed Ruis gives the team advice about working together and learning from each other. Coach Ruis goes over the game plans before officially starting the matches. He pumps up the team by giving a motivational speech.

LEFT: Freshman Benjamin Au lunges and returns the birdie to a member of the Encinal High School badminton team. Although this is Au's first year on the team he has already made it onto the Varsity team.

RIGHT: Junior Quang Hoang serves a birdie to a fellow teammate during practice. This is Hoang's second year on the team where he is the number three on the mixed doubles with his partner. This is his first year playing as mixed double; he used to play men singles. Hoang played for a year in Vietnam prior to moving to the U.S.

Seniors Trent Liu and Dennis Chee work together during the match against Pinole Valley High School. Showing good doubles form, Liu prepares to smash the birdie while Chee covers the front half of the court and readies himself for any counter-attack from the opposing team. Liu and Chee are both currently number two men's double on the Varsity team. Liu and Chee have both been on the badminton team since their Sophomore year.

Senior Mark Jason Caoile prepares to smash the birdie at his opponents during the game against Pinole Valley High School. This is Caoile's second year on the team as a Varsity player. Caoile is currently ranked number one men's doubles with his partner.

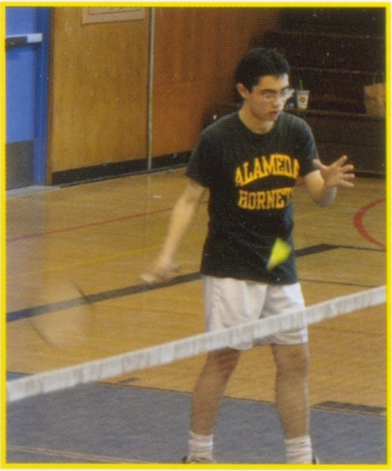
LEFT: Senior Arkina Vo repositions herself to begin another round of the game against her opponents during the game with Pinole Valley High School with her partner. Vo has been playing badminton since she was seven years old, but this is her first year on an American team.

RIGHT: Freshman Krystal Ching is prepared to return anything her opponent throws at her during the match against Hercules High School. Although this is Ching's first year on the team she has already made the list as number three women's singles.



Jerry Xu, '10

1. Senior Wen Xi (Andy) Zhang lifts a birdie to return to his opponents during the match against Hercules. Zhang has been on the team for four years as a Varsity player.

2. Sophomore Mae Sharmaine Caoile is currently ranked number one on the women's single varsity division. Caoile readies herself to clear the birdie to the other end of the court.

3. Senior TrucAnh Nguyen smashes the birdie to her opponent from Encinal High School. Nguyen has been playing badminton since she was five years old.

Man Leo Yeung

Sophomore Chris Maier gets ready to fire the ball over home plate to catcher John Ruck. Maier likes being part of the Varsity squad and he also likes how no one can hit him while he's on the mound.

Junior Jon Mykal Reyes slowly starts his wind up on the mound with an intimidating face and attitude. Reyes's favorite part about pitching is that you can control the tempo of the game and it's a completely different aspect of playing.

1. Junior John Ruck receives a fastball in his shiny new catcher's gear the team got this year. Ruck's favorite part about playing the game is the thrill of being on the team and the fast pace of the game. Ruck practices outstanding work ethics and skills not only on the field but in the classroom too.
2. Sophomore Ryan Cooper gets ready to relay the sign from the coach to the pitcher. Cooper loves catching because of how active and involved he can be in every play. His favorite Major League Baseball player is Joe Mauer who plays for the Minnesota Twins.

Sophomore Jack Kelly receives a pick-off throw from Jon Mykal Reyes and gets ready to slap a tag on the runner. Kelly's favorite part of playing the game is offense. He likes hitting the most out of anything he does. "I like the hard work I put in at practice and seeing it all pay off in the game," says Kelly.

Junior Eli Nemzer fields a ground ball during warm ups and aggressively throws it to first base. Nemzer's goal for this year is to keep his GPA higher than his E.R.A.

Junior Brandon Woo hits the ball into an outfield gap and watches it as he runs to see where it lands. Woo bats lead-off, so it's important to get on base to set the tempo for the game. "I am fast and I know I can steal a base if I want," says Woo. Last year he hit in the eighth hole and it's a big change from eight to one. Woo feels that it's his duty to lead off his team with a base hit every time he bats.

Sophomore Trent Yee takes his lead of first base carefully and aggressively. Yee likes Varsity practices because he enjoys being with his friends and learning something new. "I like the excitement of pitching and my favorite pitcher is Tim Lincecum on the San Francisco Giants."

What's your funniest baseball memory?

"My funniest baseball moment was on a rainy day in the new gym when we were practicing a sliding drill that Coach Gregg Dunn was instructing at the time. Everybody seemed to be doing it correct when my teammate Brandon Woo slides right into Dunn and he fell and the team found it very funny.

-Alex Altman, '10

"During practice my teammate Sam Merz face planted into the ground after trying to catch a fly ball in the outfield."

-Trever Toy, '12

Junior Richard Roque swings the bat aggressively and connects with the ball. Roque's hitting approach is to think fastball, ready to adjust to offspeed.

1. Freshman Chris Scyphers takes his lead off of second base and watches the catcher to make sure he does not get backdoored (when the runner gets off the base too far and is thrown out by an opposing player to the base he just left). "I have been playing baseball for 10 years and it keeps me active and goingbecause of the love I have for the game."
2. Freshman Weston Tolbert is the DH this year for the team. "When I walk up to the plate, I think confidently. I don't think where the ball is going to go, I just hit it."

Senior Daniel Lyons-Lau has been diving on Varsity for four years. "I love the team because it is like a small family and everyone has that bond with each other," says Lyons-Lau.

Junior Jade Pavao, JV, springs from the diving board during practice. This is Pavao's first year diving and "look[s] forward to going to practice and learning new dives."

Senior Kyle Bridges executes an inward one and one half somersault. The Varsity diver joined the AHS team after he "saw some guys at the pool during summer doing crazy tricks. I wanted to learn how to do them, so I joined. I like the adrenaline rush and the feeling after you really nail a dive." During his final year at Alameda High, Bridges looks forward to "improving old dives, learning new ones, and trying to get further at NCS."

1) During his first year diving for AHS, Freshman Charles Harkins decided to begin diving because "it seemed like a lot of fun, and it is an underestimated sport."

2) Tanner Embry, JV, prepares to spring off of the diving board during practice. "I joined the team because my brother told me to come and try it out and it was really fun," says Embry.

Samuel Embry, Varsity, practices the one and a half somersault. The Junior's favorite thing about diving is "the rush that comes from having to throw myself into the air and keep my form straight while going into the water."

Senior Daniel Lyons-Lau dives headfirst into the water after completing a reverse dive. Lyons-Lau enjoys diving because "it has taught me to trust myself and to just believe that I can do things I thought were impossible."

Freshman Tanner Embry practices his back flip during his first year on the AHS diving team. "I prepare for a meet by listening to music and practicing all of my dives before hand," says Embry.

Freshman Robert Platt, JV, perfects his front dive during his team practice. "My favorite thing about diving is trying a dive that you think is impossible to do, and to attempt the dive even though you might be nervous or scared." Platt is one of the seven members of the AHS diving team, and regularly attends the numerous wet and dry-land practices with his teammates. "I look forward to be diving on the team for most of or all of my years at Alameda High. I hope I can learn more dives each year I am on the team," says Platt.

Do you do any extra practice outside of school?

"Well to do diving you definitely have to be flexible. Out of my four years of diving, this is the first year where I started going to a gymnastics place. I use the trampoline and land all my tricks into a foam pit. Doing flips repeatedly is really exhausting, especially in the pool, but this is really convenient."

-Kyle Bridges, '10

"I used to do gymnastics, but other than practicing at the pool after school, I don't do anything extra. This is my first year of diving and so far it's been a really fun experience. I'm also the only girl on the team! At first it was pretty scary because I have a small fear of heights. The best trick I can do is called a pike!"

-Jade Pavao, '11

Samuel Embry has been diving for two years and "look[s] forward to being able to do harder dives, and hopefully gaining enough skill to dive in college." The Varsity diver stays in shape for meets by working out and doing pre-season practices. "The team is really relaxed, and we get along great. It makes for a fun environment," says Embry.

Charles Harkins, JV, practices his reverse flip. "I look forward to learning some cool new moves and being on the team again for my next three years at AHS," says Harkins.

Charles Harkins, Samuel Embry and Tanner Embry keep loose in the pool while waiting for their turns to dive.

Grace E. Na, '11, smacks the ball down the farway and finishes with a good back swing. She patiently watches for her shot to come down in the middle of the farway so she has a good lie for her next shot. She must think ahead thinking two or possibly three shots ahead which is important in golf. A good tee shot hit a long way in the rough is not as good as a short tee shot with a clear path to the hole.

1. Marco Gonzalez has been playing golf for 15 years starting at age three. Gonzalez, '10 says "I try not to put pressure on myself and hope for the best outcome." Gonzalez takes a step back to practice his putting stroke.
2. Samantha Moyal, '12 has been playing on the golf team for two years. Moyal's favorite club to use is a 9.5 degree driver because she can hit the ball really far.
3. Dakare Dixon-Essien, '12 practices his swing before it is his turn to tee off.

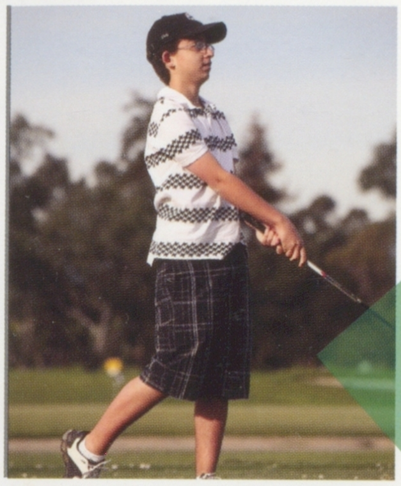
Angus Storm, 13' warms up for the game by practicing his swing off to the side of the tee box before it is his turn to go up for the match.

Megan Yee, '12 practices her putting on the practice green before her match. Putting can be the easiest or the hardest part of the game depending on the player.

Nicholas Beach, '12 is in his back swing getting ready to tee off the golf ball. Beach plays with black tees instead of white tees because he is experienced player.



Samantha Esguerra, '11 has been playing for nine years. She has been on the Varsity golf team ever since her Freshmen year. Esguerra recently won the women's golf title at the 2010 San Francisco City Championship.

Nicholas Clementi, 13' follows his shot down the fairway from the tee. Making sure exactly where his golf ball lands is crucial, so he doesn't ever misplace it.

Juniors Samantha Esguerra and Grace E. Na, and Sophomore Samantha Moyal practice their putting on the practice green before their match. The girls are all experienced players since they were all on the team last year. Esguerra, Na, and Moyal always achieve low scoring numbers every year in their matches, because the scoring for golf is about getting the fewest number of strokes possible during the game.

Derek Snediker, 13' tees off with a Sasquatch driver head which is unique in shape. Snediker has been playing golf for two years now. Snediker also plays in the Alameda Junior Golf Club.

Grace Na, 10' is practicing her putting before she gets ready to play. Her favorite club to use is the 60 degree sand wedge because she likes the feel of the club and how the golf ball travels when she hits it.

Whats your hardest shot to make?

"My hardest shot out of the rest of the shots would be out of the bunker because I'm not sure where the ball is going to come out. It is also hard to control it sometimes. When I get those type of shots I use my 58 degree sand wedge."

-Shawn Carroll, '13

"Putting is my hardest shot because the various terrains and different kind of grains are hard to read. Before the match I usually get on the practice grains to get used to the surface."

Park says, "I usually play first base and that is my primary pick because it has never ending action, but being catcher is my second choice. Catcher is more laid back but still as exciting."

2) Junior Megan Averitt Var, steps up to bat and keeps her eye on the fast moving pitch so she can put all of her power into her swing when making contact with the ball.

3) Running as quickly as she can out of the batter's box, Freshman Alexis Konstantino JV, makes an effort to beat out the ground ball that she just hit.

4) Smoothly throwing the ball, Sophomore Gia Morten Var, launches it to third in attempt to get the speedy base runner out. Morten has been playing for nine years total and on Var for her second year.

1) Outfielder, Drew Jones, '12 Var, catches a pop fly to left field and ends the inning. Jones is a dedicated team member and player, she has childhood of memories and of playing softball, which gives you experience.

2) Junior Florence Yuen JV, is in the batter's box waiting for the ball to be pitched. "I've been playing for two years and I first got into the game partially from my brother who plays baseball. Softball practices can get pretty tiring but I feel a sense of calmness and focus during the games which makes it all worth it," says Yuen.

Eagerly but elegantly sliding into home plate, Junior Aamirah Dastgir JV, goes full out to win this relentless battle on the field. Her success of being safe gains a run, and brings the team closer to yet another victory. Dastgir is a great left fielder for the team, and loves playing the position.

What was your worst injury?

"I was at an intense practice when I tore my hamstring. I was out for a while, but I went to all the games to support my team. One of my favorite aspects about softball is working as a team. I really made sure to show my dedication and love for the game by being there."

- Emily Cooper, '12, JV

"During a game I tore my MCL, which is the inner side of my knee. I was sliding for third and it didn't hurt momentarily but afterwards I felt a pain. 2) On the verge of releasing a curve ball, Junior Katherine Johnson Var, maintains a serene yet fixated expression. "Curve ball is my favorite pitch because the opponent is clueless to how to react. Being pitcher is really serene and calm so I love this position. I've been playing for seven years so I have a lot of experience," says Johnson.

3) Knuckle touches are shared on first base by Freshman Mia Musso Var, and the first base Coach Jay Lawson. Musso hits a single to the outfield and makes the coach and team ecstatic by the hit. DYNAMIC

What goes through your mind while competing in a meet?

"When I'm competing in a match, I get so nervous. I always constantly try not to mess up because I'm new and I'm afraid that my team may dislike me if I come in last. I really focus on my technique because I don't want to be just flopping my arms around in the water like a fish. Sometimes I'll flip out because I don't want to mess up at all, but in the end it's just something that may happen."

-Devin Robinson, '13

"While I'm swimming I focus on having a good start and having a good finish as well. I also think about how well I'm doing and if there are any improvements I can make to build up speed or better my movements. Of course, I think about winning but that mostly comes while I'm on my last lap. Every once in a while, I think about if my goggles will stay on."

-Daniel Daniel, '11

Dennis Wong, JV, races towards the end of his lane during a butterfly event. "I enjoy swimming because it is good exercise, and it is a lot of fun," says the Freshman. "To be a good swimmer, you need to have determination."

Derrick Do, Freshman, takes a quick breath while he practices his freestyle during a warm up.

Varsity swimmer Robert Ingram, Sophomore, works on his breaststroke for an upcoming meet. "It's really fun competing against people and progressing to make it past your own personal point and personal goal," says Ingram.

Junior Tito Jimenez focuses on his backstroke form during practice. Jimenez has been swimming for Alameda High for one year and "love[s] to swim because its better than getting sweaty, like in other sports." The JV swimmer loves the relaxing, yet energizing feeling of the water.

This is the Freshman's first year swimming for the Hornets, and "love[s] racing." Gee had his debut three years ago after his mother told him that swimming was healthy and would help him become taller. "I like swimming," says Gee. "It's always fun to get into the pool."

Sophomore Emile Siroit keeps his eye on the opposite wall as he perfects his butterfly stroke during practice. This is Siroit's second year swimming for Varsity at AHS. "I like to compete because it is a full body sport. You need to use every part of your body," says Siroit. "It is really difficult to perfect all of the strokes and to be able to move quickly in the water."

Freshman Anthony Tran, races towards the edge of the pool during his backstroke event. During his first year at AHS, Tran has been a positive addition to the JV team.

After one of their many practices, the Men's Swim team gathers together. Through daily, rigorous 5:00 am and afternoon practices, the band of athletes becomes a brotherhood. "If I didn't have some kind of physical activity every day, I think that I would go crazy," says Varsity swimmer Steven Tom, Senior. "Coach Marshall is really loyal and responsible. I hope we can win League again and get more people to NCS."

After suffering an injury last year, Sody Enkhbayar, JV, was determined to get back into swimming. "I try every day to get back to where I was. I look forward to getting better and to be prepared for next year," says the Junior

Jared Thompson, Varsity, concentrates during a breaststroke event. "Its a fun way to stay in shape and I love to be in the water" says the swimmer. "You don't think about anything except for yourself and how you're doing." The Sophomore has been swimming since his Freshman year and "loves early morning practices."

"I've been swimming in a competitive league for the past five years. My favorite part about the sport is the rush of adrenaline I get when I dive into the pool."

-Erica Escalante '12

Varsity Junior Zoe Allen dives off of the starting block at the start of the 200 Individual Medley against Arroyo. This race consists of 50 meters of each swimming stroke: backstroke, freestyle, breaststroke and butterfly. Allen comments that before the start of the race, she needs to know her strategy for the race and what time she is attempting to get.

Cynthia Hughes, '11, swims backstroke in an Individual Medley, although usually she favors swimming butterfly stroke. Hughes has been on the Varsity since her Freshman year. Hughes says, "my favorite part of the whole experience is the people; we have such a great team."

Varsity Veteran Marlena Nip, '10, swims breaststroke, which is her favorite stroke, in the St. Mary's meet. Nip has been swimming in the competitive league, Alameda Islanders for nine years.

Isabella Lino '12 pushes off the wall to build up her momentum at the start of a freestyle race against St. Mary's. This was the JV Level A swimmers second year swimming. Lino comments, "I enjoy swimming because it keeps me in shape and my friends do it too."

Varsity swimmer Sophia Chu, '13, swims breaststroke in an Individual Medley against Arroyo. Chu has been swimming since 1st grade and just started swimming competitively over the past three years. Chu is one of the few Freshmen on Varsity team this year, and she has bonded well with her teammates. She states, "the girls are all really nice, we are like a close knit family."

Identical twins Thais and Alexandra Arjo, '12, race against each other for the first time. The sisters swam backstroke in the race and Thais jokes, "I came out the victorious one!" Although Thais has been swimming longer than Alexandra, they both share the same passion and love for the sport.

Jessica Alvarado, '13, comes to the surface for a breath of air while doing breaststroke in competition. Alvarado has been swimming in outside competitive leagues since she was eight years old. Therefore, she received a well-earned position on the Varsity team this year.

Heather Park, '11, swims backstroke at the meet against Arroyo. Park has been on the Varsity team since her Freshman year and really enjoys the satisfaction she gets from competing in big meets such as NCS.

Bryan Gee, '11, runs to the ball and gets in the perfect stance to perform a forehand swing. He plays number three singles on the Varsity team and plans to continue playing throughout high school. "Tennis is a lot of fun and the team has strong bonds this year," says Gee.

Switching to his backhand, Jeffery Li, '10, hits a forehand winner. He plays number four singles and has been on the Varsity team for all four years. Playing for seven years, Li hopes to continue playing as either a recreational or college player because "tennis is a lot of fun and keep me in shape," says Li.

1. Before the match starts, the team gathers together to say a few words of inspiration, getting everyone pumped up for their matches.
2. Brian Wong, '12, plays number two doubles on the Varsity team. He made a big jump from playing JV last year to playing on the top of the Varsity ladder this year. "Tennis is very relaxing and a fun way to exercise," says Wong.

The Alameda High School Men's Varsity tennis team lines up and prepares to announce the line up. This year, the team is league champion for the fourth time in a row. "The team is very strong this year and will probably remain strong for the next couple of years," says Nick Losande.

Teon Lee, '13, warms up his forehand in an open stance. Lee plays number three doubles on the Varsity team and has been playing tennis for three years.

Nick Losande, '10, jumps up to smash his serve on his opponent. He plays number one doubles on the Varsity team. Losande has been playing since he was ten years old and once he graduates this year, will go to Purdue University.

At the beginning of each match, both teams line up and shake hands. The Number one singles, Andrew Courtland, shakes hands with his opponent while his teammates cheer for him."Tennis is a polite and calm sport at times", says Justin Lee, "but team tennis can get very loud and fun also."

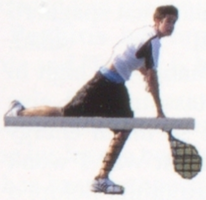
What are your future goals with tennis?

"Since I made the Varsity team as a Freshman, I want to continue playing throughout my high school career. I like playing doubles now but I sometimes I would also like to play singles. Tennis is a lot of fun and I have many friends on the team."

-Justin Lee, '13



"I want to play tennis at whatever college I get into. I also want a college scholarship for tennis. Also because of my height, I would be a good doubles player, which is necessary in college doubles."

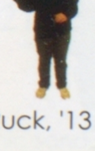
-Kyle Johnston, '10

Andrew Courtland, '12, plays number one singles on the Varsity team after playing only three years. He is a rising star in tennis. Varsity team captains say that he is "a very talented player who is fun to have around the courts." Courtland is ranked in the top 30 in Northern California as part of the United States Tennis Association, USTA. This athlete trains year-round with private coaches and joins tournaments throughout the state.

Kenny Thon, '13, comes up on a weak serve and then smashes the ball across the net. He started playing tennis only one year ago and he already plays number three doubles on the Varsity team. "Playing with friends at the local tennis courts got me started in the sport, but then I decided to push myself and join the team," says Thon. He has played with many different teammates and is a very versatile player.

One of the Varsity captains, Ryan Lim, '10, hits a forehand during practice. Lim has been playing for six years and plans to go to Berkeley or UCLA next year. "I like this sport so much because I have tried playing many sports, but tennis was always the most fun and I kept coming back to it," says Lim. He is an all-around great scholar athlete with an GPA of 4.8. Also, Lim has gained the best record during the season, since he is undefeated.

Benjamin Goode, '11, tosses the ball around one o'clock above his head to serve. This is Goode's third year on the AHS Varsity tennis team and he plays number two doubles. He plans to continue playing next year and is a great supporter of the sport. Goode says "building the skills of the Freshman of the team is the best way to go."



Jim Ruck, '13

How do you prepare for a meet?

"I usually eat my cheerios before a big meet, and then I warm-up after to get my body adjusted to moving my limbs. I try to take a nap after and then when I wake up from that, I warm-up again. My warm-ups usually consist of stretching my muscles, jogging and taking some practice runs. My main focus before a meet is to relax my mind, body, and get more motivated to do my best."

-Alan Mendoza, '10

"Before a meet, I like to eat a lot of bananas and drink a ton of water. And the night before I usually eat spaghetti and a salad. Bananas are high in potassium and give me so much energy so that way I won't tire out when running. Before a meet, I stretch for 30 minutes, and I eye down the opposing team so I can feel ready and prepared to do my best when I'm out on the track.

-Chris Parsons, '13

Freshman Utieyin Etchie uses her speed and strength to jump over the High Jump bar. Etchie is able to jump as least four feet in the air whereas the pole is placed between four feet and 4'5" from the ground The High Jump is a difficult, yet adrenaline-boosting event that requires the runner to focus all her energy at making the jump successful.

1. Distance runners Irene Xu, Rebeckah Vitucci and Jessica Burns all keep a steady pace during the mile. All three girls start off with a steady run and progress through each lap.

2. Sophomore Maddy Gould charges off from the starting line in the 400 m dash. Gould has to get enough momentum to stay in the lead and finish off strong.

3. Senior Brandon Sepp takes the lead and Jamie Kelly trails behind in an attempt to dispatch the competition. Running the mile, both Sepp and Kelly are strong runners with a lot of endurance.

Junior Frank Mai prepares to throw the discus. Mai is one of the leading discus throwers on the team and can throw farther than 38 meters. With precision and strength, Mai makes sure that every throw goes are far as possible.

Senior Jennifer Kam runs alongside the competition in the hopes of winning the 4x400 race. Kam, who is one of the leading Varsity sprinters, is extremely dedicated to running and commits to every race as if it is her last.

TRACK AND FIELD by [Cesar Hernandez and Veronica Hall]

1. With a triumphant start, Senior Kellie Grigg leads the races as she leaves everyone peddling beghind. At a League meet in Berkeley, Grigg ran in the 4x4 race where her group beat the boys.

2. Senior Zachary Perkins finishes first at the Dan Gaber Distance Festival. Perkins, who beat the second place by 9 seconds, has been a dedicated member of the track team since his sophomore year. More recently, Perkins has broken many of the schools records and "feels it is his duty to win."

3. Freshman Zach Ribera intensely puts a shot into the air, using his legs to build power into a stong throw. Ribera has been competing in this event for the past two years and is a valuable asset to the team.

4. Sophomore Monte Krohn jogs smoothly in the lead after darting past everyone else. Krohn smokes the competition using his agility, endurance, and perseverance to ensure he runs a good race.

Sophomore Frances Willcox prepares herself for a match by warming up with leaps near the hurdles. Wilcox extends both of her legs out to gain more wind power and add speed to her jump. This is Wilcox's second year on the AHS track team and plans on continuing with track and field in her high school career.

Freshman Varsity sprinters Pearl Holmes and Taylor Owyang practice handing off the baton. Both Holmes and Owyang are new to track and field, but are extremely determined to show the upperclassmen their skills. Holmes says "[she] loves the meets and that before a game, [she] loves to pump [herself] up by listening to Rock music on [her] iPod."

Junior Jessica Trieu stretches before doing a practice run. Trieu, who has been on the track team since freshman year, truly knows what it takes to be a great leader. Trieu runs the 100 m dash and competes in hurdle jumping. Trieu is dedicated to track so much that next year she will be one of the captains.

Dominic Sandoval

Chris Chan, '13, bumps the ball when it comes right in front of him. Even though it is Chan's first year, he "wanted to try something new, and [volleyball] is really fun." Chan also believes the appeal in volleyball is, "there's a lot of chances to shine, stick it out, and play well."

When the ball was too high, Gavin Dacumos, '12, uses the skill of setting to stop the ball from getting further away from the net, which in turn makes it easier for the team to set up a play to make a kill. Dacumos believes the one thing you need for volleyball is to be agile, something he learned from his dad, who is also the coach.

Chris Young, '11, takes advantage of his height to block his opponent's hit. Young explains: "My six feet six inches height allows me to get the ball over easily as well as intimidate the blocker, which makes them hesitant to do anything,.

Jumping high in the air, Andres Cabrales, '10, drives the ball to the other side of the net. The one skill Cabrales believes is advantageous for volleyball is "good foot work or agility," without which, one is not able to play well.

Alexander Wilkins, '11, stretches into a semi-crouch position to dig the ball. Wilkins believes, "Volleyball is a fun way to learn a sport that you can play throughout your whole life, both competitively or non-competitively."

1. Both Alex Chan and Chris Choi, '12, fold their hands together in order to bump the ball as efficiently as they can when it comes their way. Choi says the duo have never played before but "I just wanted to play with my friends and we all got this [volleyball] idea.
2. The Varsity team gets together for a quick pep talk with their coach before a game, hearing words of encouragement and getting pumped up for the game.

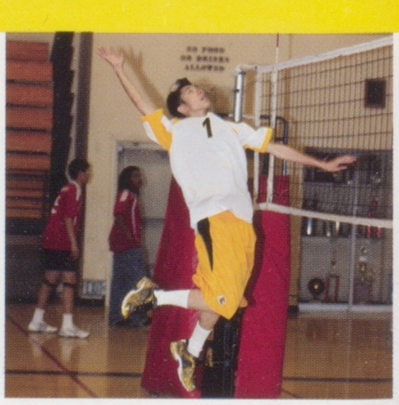
Nate Silverman, '10, gets low in order to bump the ball successfully. Silverman has been playing volleyball since he was ten, drawing his inspiration from his dad who played at nationals. Silverman says volleyball is "a fast paced game you can't understand until you start playing. You have to be determined and alert because if you don't have the drive, then why play?"



Kiet Kevin Tran, '10, extends one arm and jumps to hit the ball. In order to be good at hitting, you have to follow the three step approach, mustering your momentum, and using all your force to hit the ball as hard as you can.

Competitive

Kawika Baculpo and Brendon Foye, '10, jump high, bumping into each other as a unique way of celebrating. Baculpo loves to be loud and congratulate the whole team and raise their spirits in his own special way. This is Baculpo sixth consecutive year, while it is Foye's second, and both have an unparalleled passion for the game.

What song gets you pumped up before a game?

"I don't really listen to any songs, I just play songs in my head. Usually, they are songs I just make up in the moment. The songs really help me get my head in the game and focus. I usually make up rap songs because it gets you pumped and you can smash on your songs in your head."

-Ryan Hunter, '11

"I'm a Beast, by Lil Wayne because it's a really good song and it gets me focused before the game. The lyrics in the song get me really hyped, it makes me think that I'm better than anybody and everybody."

-Kyja Sutton-Chappell, '10

1) Connor Reed, '11, blocks the ball while in midair, not allowing the ball to get to his side of the net in the first place.
2) Junio Aglioti, '10, in the simplest method of bumping, uses his forearms to hit the ball instead of his hands.
3) Brandon Yee, '10, uses an overhand serve to get the ball across the net. This is the first year Yee has played volleyball after running track for three consecutive years. Yee needed something "up tempo and competitive," which he found in volleyball.

YEAR IN REVIEW

President Obama approved the decision to send an additional 34,000 troops to Afghanistan.

The Homecoming assembly was threatened during the school year of 2009-2010. Administrators were in favor of taking away the assembly because of the rowdiness from the previous year. Students were crushed at the thought of not having an annual homecoming assembly. As a result, some students got together and created a petition, made a video, wrote letters, anything that would help to win back the assembly. After a hard fight students were able to compromise and have the assembly, albeit a better behaved one.

This year's Spring Musical, Peter Pan, premiered Friday March 19th. It featured Senior Kristin Little as Peter Pan and Junior Alec Mathieson as Captain Hook. The play was loved by all who saw it.

1. Data from the Lunar Crater Observation and Sensing Satellite revealed water on the moon's South Pole.

2. On January 12, 2009, a 7.0 earthquake struck less than ten miles from the Caribbean city of Port-au-Prince, Haiti. The earthquake left buildings crushed, bodies out on the street, and families torn apart.

At the age of 50, Michael Jackson was pronounced dead on June 25, 2009 at 2:26 p.m. after a cardiac arrest. Jackson, the music icon, was known as the "King of Pop." He held many number one hits, and his "Thriller" is the best-selling album of all time.

Top 8 Events of the 1st Decade of the Millennium

This decade saw the beginning of two wars. The first, the War in Afghanistan, was started as a result of the September 11th attacks. The U.S. removed the Taliban from power in Afghanistan and was able to destroy much of Al Qaeda's power in the country. The second war, The War in Iraq, was brought about by claims that Saddam Hussein had Weapons of Mass Destruction. These claims were never substantiated. Nevertheless Hussein was removed from power and a pro-American government was created.

Michael Phelps won 8 Gold Medals at the 2008 Bejing Olympic Games. This broke the previous record of seven Gold Medals that had stood since 1972. Overall, Phelps holds 16 medals, 14 of which are Gold. The United States took home the most medals from the Olympics. They won 110 medals, 36 gold, 38 Silver and 36 Bronze. China took home the most Gold Medals, with a tally of 51.

In the past decade there has been a growth in the belief of Global Climate Change. Whereas this issue has become a leading issue in many nations, in the U.S. global warming is still split along ideological lines, with Liberals being twice as likely to say that Global Climate Change is an urgent issue compared to Conservatives. However internationally there is more agreement that steps towards ending Global Climate Change need to be taken. These feelings have grown in the past decade as side affects from Global Climate Change have become ever more present.

On September 11th, 2001 members of the terrorist group Al Qaida hijacked four Commercial Jetliners. They crashed two into the World Trade Center in NYC. They crashed another into the Pentagon outside of Washington D.C. The fourth plane crashed in a field in Pennsylvania after the passengers and crew members retook control of the plane. In all about 3,000 people lost there lives in the attack. This event also lead to the War in Afghanistan.

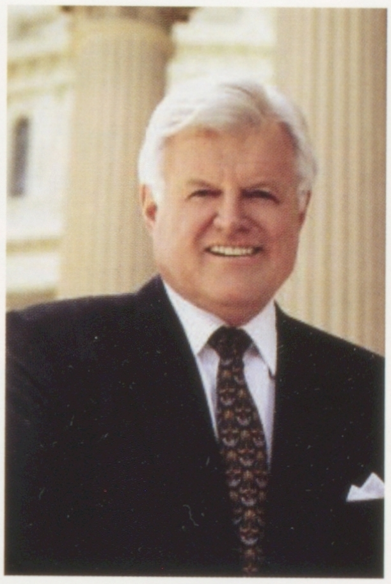
Year in Review by [Danielle Guillen and Michael Hoye]

President Obama finally accomplished victory on the night of March 21, 2010, passing the Democratic dream of Universal Health Care. This bill's purpose is to bring coverage to 32 million Americans who do not currently have it, and provide more affordable access to health care. The reform bill will not take effect until the year of 2014, at the earliest.

Massachusetts Senator Ted Kennedy died on August 26, 2009. Kennedy, known as the "Lion of the Senate," died after a long battle against brain cancer. He was an outspoken liberal standard-bearer during a conservative-dominated era from the 1980s to the early 2000s.



Between December 7th and 18th, representatives from around the world met in Copenhagen, Denmark to discuss Climate Change. Many demanded strong action to combat climate change and were disappointed with the lack of commitment global leaders made towards finding solutions to this problem.

CLIMATE JUSTICE NOW!

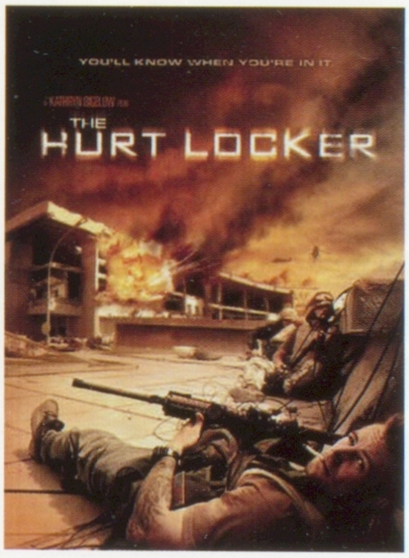
We are standing up for public schools and California's future.
Support this State-wide Day of Action in Support of Public Ed. Contact your legislators!

On Thursday, March 12, 2010, teachers all over California stood outside of their schools to protest for the funding cuts in education. Here Mr. Manno and Ms. Macy hold signs in protest of the funding cuts

At the 2010 Winter Olympics in Vancouver, Canada, the U.S. brought home 37 medals, the most out of all countries that participated.



YOU'LL KNOW WHEN YOU'RE IN IT.
THE HURT LOCKER

The film, The Hurt Locker, wins the Academy Award for best picture. Not only did this thrilling movie win best picture, but its director, Kathryn Bigelow, made history in becoming the first female Best Director.

The end of this decade was marked by a major economic recession. Started in the U.S., this recession has affected countries across the world. This recession was caused by a boom and bust in the housing market, where people were taking out loans that they couldn't afford to pay back. Nationally unemployment levels reached a high of 9.7 in February of 2010. In terms of damage, this economic collapse is second only to the Great Depression of the 1930s.

CHANGE
WE CAN BELIEVE IN

On February 20th Barack Obama replaced George W. Bush as President of the United States of America. He is the first African-American elected to the office of President. He brought with him a message of Hope and Change. Coming into office he inherited two wars, a global recession and numerous other problems.

In August 2005 a Category 5 hurricane, Katrina, hit the southeastern United States. It destroyed entire towns, killed 1,836 people and flooded the city of New Orleans. At its worst 80% of the city and its surrounding areas were submerged, rendering whole neighborhoods unsalvagable. The U.S. Government was widely criticized for its slow reaction to the disaster.

This past decade saw the rise of numerous social networking sites. These sites, such as Twitter, Facebook and Myspace, brought about new ways to stay in touch with friends, meet new people and express one's thoughts and beliefs. They've revolutionized the way many people interact and checking these sites has become a daily routine for most students.

Yearbook Adivser

Wow. After 13 years of making yearbooks, I've come to the end of my road. It has been a privilege to get to know so many amazing kids across these years. I will always cherish our after school bonding time, road and plane trips to yearbook camp, dreaming up new themes, hollering, "one pica between elements" and of course, frosting fights. I will miss you all! Marika and Michele, thanks for making my last year a good one.

Marika Prins

Editor in Chief

I am so proud of the yearbook staff for working to together and developing the skills necessary to create such a stylish, yet cohesive yearbook. It was fun to see how we became a family after working long hours in the yearbook room together. However, all the time slaving over the book was so worth it because the book looks amazing!

Yearbook by [Marika Prins]

Publication Specs: The Alameda High School Acorn, Volume 136, was printed at Taylor's Publishing Plant, Dallas,Texas. 1020 copies were printed. Our trim size is 9 by 12 on GLO# 180 paper. The Acorn is produced by the Yearbook class using Dell Pentinum 4 computers equipped with Adobe Indesign CS4 and Adobe Photoshop CS4. Georgia font was used for captions and copies throughout the book. Font types used consist of Century Gothic, Haettenschweiler, and Arial Rounded MT Bold. The Alameda Acorn Staff can be reached at (510) 337-7022 x5430 or emailed at alamedayearbook@gmail.com. Mail may be sent to 2201 Encinal Avenue, Alameda, CA. 94501.

Senior Cesar Hernandez and Freshman Veronica Hall were both excited when they figured out they were working on the Track and Field Page together. Cesar says jokingly "my dream has come true." Even through the stress of thinking they are not going to finish in time, they always are able to.

Good friends, Sophomores Sarah Choe, Andy Myovich and Erica Borowski enjoy a party after a deadline. They made heart-shaped rice krispies for Ms. Klinger. This is their first year in yearbook and Choe says "I like contributing to the school and to the students. "

This is Alameda High School's 136th yearbook. Throughout the years, the books have become more stylish, and advanced through increased technology and added design abilities. Every year, a new wave of staffers join the class to work together in creating a book that captures memories from the year.

Sophomore Steven Rhodes receives a cake from his birthday buddy, Senior Adolfo Perez. This is a new tradition, which started this year to bring fun and excitement to the class, even when there are stressful deadlines.

1) Sophomore Erica Borowski holds up a green book next to Senior Adolfo Perez so they can match.
2) Seniors Sarah Courtland, Vivian Wu, and Daniel Liang work on their sport pages to try to get their photos placed before the mini-deadline.
3)Sophomores Steven Rhodes and Sarah Choe create ultimate paper planes, critical to page creation.
4) Sophomore Brianna Ramchandani and Junior Sara Osman prepare to go interview

Seniors Michael Hoye and Michele Sum are on the same team while playing Taboo, a game central to the yearbook psyche.

Mr. Janvier [we will miss you]

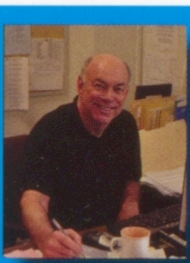
Mr. Janvier has been the principal of Alameda High for the past six years, and has decided to retire. Michael Janvier has a long association with AHS -- he actually went here as a student. He has always been a solid figure on campus, earnest and full of sincerity, with only the best in mind for the student body and faculty. Although we regret saying goodbye, we wish him the best for all of his future endeavors.



"I worked very close with him for the past six years because I am the head counselor and he is the principal. He is always trying to make AHS better. He is always very calm and never gets rattled. He is organized, polite, works very hard and cares deeply about students and staff."

-John Maiers, Counselor

"Mr. Janvier has done a fantastic job at Alameda High School. He really walks his talk. He asks for respect and gives respect in return. It will be tough losing one of my mentors at this school. He has taught me to be very patient and level headed, to keep working on through."

-Brad Thomas, PE teacher and Athletic Director

"In the beginning, we had a purely professional relationship, however, since we have worked so many hours, I got to know him on a more personal level. He is the most dedicated, hard working principal with whom I have ever worked. Mr. Janvier cares about the students in school and has a perspective that is different than most because he has deep roots in the school and community. Alameda High School is like his family, and he demonstrates how he truly cares and loves the school, the students as well as the community through his work. This is shown since he has been selected as an outstanding secondary administration. He will be leaving behind a big pair of shoes to fill."

Mr. Rodd [we will miss you]

Mr. Rodd has been teaching Physical Education and coaching at Alameda High School for 24 years and has decided it's time to retire. Robbert Rodd is a well-loved teacher because he brings joy to everyone around him. He has touched many lives through his kindness, optimism, and humor. Even though we do not want him to leave, we hope he finds happiness in the next phase of his life.

The Endless Summer

"If I didn't have Mr. Rodd as a teacher my life would be boring because he's the only thing I look forward to at the end of the day. I remember one time I swam against him during the alumni meet at AHS and it was an unforgettable experience. I was surprised to see him swim with such gusto. He has a lot of energy for a guy his age. Also, he is a great Odysseus look alike."

"Mr. Rodd is a funny man. I like his sarcastic jokes and how even in the cold he would wear his short shorts and trendy shirts. However, I like Mr. Rodd for more than just his outfits, he motivated me to play my hardest in sports and made me be good at sports, which I still appreciate today."

"If I could describe Mr. Rodd in one word it would be unique because I would not expect him to like certain things. There is more to him than most people realize because he is not a grump old PE teacher. I will miss his random irrelevant jokes. Also, he taught me to stay on track and to never give up on a goal."

"I love his catch phrases, and he definitely looks like Odysseus from The Odyssey. I will miss his flower print shirts and I think that the school will lose a lot of spirit and spunk. Also, I like how he is very intense about sports, and I see him working out at the gym often so he is a PE teacher who actually stays in shape! Also, my mom is good friends with Mr. Rodd, which kind of connects us in a way."
